THE FIRST TWO PILLS TOOK

THE PAIN AWAY.

EADE'S PILLS. "2, College Park Villas, Kemsall Green, London, W., May, 1891.

EADE'S PILLS. "Dear Sir—I feel it my duty to tell you I had Rheumatic Gout twice, and I had to stop at home for three weeks. I cannot describe the pain I suffered. I read your advertisement, and looked upon it as all others. A brother signalman said 'Try them.' I did so.

EADE'S PILLS TOOK THE PAIN AWAY in a few hours, and I was soon to resume my work. No one need be frightened to take them. I have recommended them to all whom I have heard complaining of Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Neuralgia, &c. I hope no one will doubt my statement. Yours sincerely,

THE LATEST FASHIONS.

The votaries of fashion are hard-pressed just now, for what is there to chronicle outside the Stockton races, where the Londonderry's were in full force; the Southport regatta, and the Farnham manœuvres? At all these functions tailor-made simplicity seems to have reigned supreme, and considering that August has been more like late autumn than aught else, many have already discarded flowers in favour of velvet or feather trimmings, quite forsaking straws, which are replaced by felt and velvet shapes. Very light fawn or tea colour (a delicate shade found in some of the latest six-button suède gloves), and stone-grey are the tints mostly worn in the early autumnal felt chapeaux. Black velvet, so eminently becoming to the majority of faces, no matter if they be no longer in their première ennesse, shows decided signs of being again fashionable this winter. At the above mentioned race-meeting, a delightful blonde, of the Wynyard Park coterie, made quite a hit in a large black velours shape, bent slightly down, both back and front, the sole ornamentation being a series of snow-white wings, manipulated so as to form a kind of fan-like arrangement. It was undeniably chic. Boots, laced up some inches beyond the ankle, with the lower portion in patent leather and the upper part in fawn kid, were worn by many of the élite.

ADDRESSED AT THE STOCKTON RACES.

Now's the time for looking over one's lingerie and general wardrobe. Being no longer in the giddy whirl of the season, we have leisure to reflect, and especially on rainy days, when the sea looks in a sorry mood, and even the charms of the continent seem temporally to have vanished. The dozens or half-dozens of under-clothes we possess should always be well kept up. That is to say, when one or more garments are past redemption (what looks more poverty-stricken than patched lingerie fi) we should immediately have others made in their stead. The newest shape in chemises is batiste with a deep Valencienne berthe and mauve ribbon shoulder-straps tied in a dainty bow. The "sheath" skirts of two seasons ago already look antediluvian. But what is to be done with the two-year-old silk jupes, perh only slightly soiled? Our second sketch shows how one of these "white elephants" can be utilized. A lemon-coloured bengaline skirt has been picked to pieces to form the lining of a very useful square-cut evening blouse. This foundation is veiled with citron chiffon, embroidered with black silk spots, the pointed band, collar and cuffs being composed of black jet. We are glad to note that these bodices, veiling the bosom and shoulders of the wearer, are once again de mode. They are a blessing to thin girls, and form so delightful a compromise between the cut and out décolleté and the regulation high corsage.

AN EVENING BLOUSE FOR ORDINARY WEAR.

The young Princesses of the Wales' household are going in for double-breasted coats during the coming cold season. Indeed, the best people will not be seen in the cased jackets so generally affected last winter. With the exception of short, crisp "trumpet" capes, in one with the Medici collar, revers will be more distingué. Hoods lined with some vividly coloured material are seen on the new tweed golf capes, and also on some jackets, but mostly on those of Parisian make.

In England our demoiselles are now simply mad on golf, and, although bicycling has not yet reached that popularity it has already attained among Frenchwomen, a good many of our English maidens are experts on the iron steed. For their benefit we give the model of a dainty costume, planned on the useful zouave make.

A DISTINCT BICYCLING COSTUME.

principle. This dress, with its full Turkish trousers and tight-fitting coat, fastened on the cross with pearl buttons, is made up of dark brown hop-sack. In conjunction with this bicycling suit our sportswoman favours the plain white linen collar, chestnut felt hat, and fawn doe-skin gaiters over neat patent leather shoes. These loose square trousers have a decided advantage over the short knickerbockers fastened above the knee, arrayed in which the fair bicyclist enjoys not half so much freedom of movement. Every girl is blessed with a horse should go in for a two or shree-wheeled machine.

CHAPTER II.

MURDER.

THAT alarm is seldom long without a response; yet here in the heart of New York, the frenzied woman's voice shrieked it out again and again, apparently in vain; it seemed as if the hideous night had swallowed up all that made a noise in the city. But at length a couple of Frenchmen who boarded with the Haniers and slept in a little shanty close at hand were aroused from their slumbers and entered the house. Not without misgivings, they felt their way up-stairs. By this time the boy had lighted a small lamp, and the light flickered upon the bloody business that had just been done. The two men paused in the doorway aghast. Blood was everywhere: it drenched the dead man's clothes; it polluted the sheets and bosom of the widowed woman; it welled from the night-dresses of the trembling and crying children, who had been awakened by the uproar, and their feet had trod in the pool of it that glistened on the floor. The men stood fascinated until, in compliance with Mrs. Hanier's appeals, one of them departed to summon the police. A few minutes later the noise of an officer's club rapping a signal on the pavement outside was heard, and presently three patrolmen, in waterproof cloaks and helmets, tramped up into the room.

It was at once evident that no physician could help Louis Hanier. He had been shot through the heart, and was dead, past all remedy. The officers questioned Mrs. Hanier, and she told her story, interspersed with sobs and gestures. The boy's deposition was less confused, but was like the other in suggesting no clue to the perpetrators of the crime. After gathering all the information they could, one of the officers went out to carry the news to the nearest station-house, while the others sent the mother and children into the back room, and sat down beside the body to await the arrival of the roundsman.

One of the officers had been on duty in this precinct, and knew something about the dead man and his family; the other two had only lately been assigned to the post; and he was inclined to take a somewhat unfavourable view of Mrs. Hanier's connection with the affair. Her confused statements and dreadful appearance, and the inherent improbability of several points in her story, seemed to him to point to a knowledge of the circumstances of the crime more intimate than she had acknowledged. She was a Frenchwoman: French women sometimes have lovers. Suppose that Mrs. Hanier's lover had got into the house, and that Hanier had surprised the two together. This was sufficient to explain the tragedy. Moreover, Mrs. Hanier's assertion that her husband had been shot on the staircase in the dark did not seem likely to be true. Except in trained hands, a pistol bullet is apt to go wide of its mark in the most favourable circumstances; and that it should find its way straight to the victim's heart in a situation where neither party could see the other was certainly improbable. Again, if Hanier had been shot and mortally wounded while half-way down the staircase, how happened it that his dead body was found lying beside his bed twenty feet away? Would he not have fallen down the stairs and lain at the bottom of them? These were features of the case that demanded careful consideration, to say the least of them.

The older officer, however, relying upon his personal acquaintance with the Haniers, scouted the theory of a lover, and declared his belief that the woman would prove to be entirely innocent. The man would prove to be entirely innocent. Her story might seem somewhat queer, and even be open to correction in some respects: a person's impressions of an affair that takes place in the pitch darkness and overpowering noise of a midnight fracas, and immediately upon being awakened from sleep, are not generally marked by perspicuity; but that what they had been told was true in substance and intention, he saw no good reason to doubt. The upshot of the argument (as of most arguments in this opinionated world), was that each disputant adhered to his own view—and they were still adhering to it when the arrival of the roundsman recalled them from speculation to reality.

The latter officer's voice came to them from the foot of the stairs. "Come down here, one of you," he said. "The place has been broken into and ransacked."

The statement was no exaggeration. The appearance of the shop which, though unpretending in its appointments, had always been kept neat and orderly, was now topsy-turvy in the extreme. The gas, turned fully on revealed chairs upset, bottles smashed and emptied, pictures awry on the walls, the show-case figure above the money-drawer broken, and the drawer itself rifled and left half open. The whole interior had been wantonly wrecked. One of the policemen who had set his foot in a pool of dark liquid that had collected in a depression of the floor near the wall started back with an exclamation. Was it blood that he had trodden in? The scene upstairs had prompted the idea; but this was not blood; it was the contents of a bottle of beef, which the hung had been extracted. There were signs of deliberate malice everywhere. The very spirit of mischief seemed to have invaded the place, and ravaged it for the mere delight of destruction. The officers gazed about them in mingled perplexity and astonishment.

"Let us see how they got in here, in the first place," the roundsman suggested.

Upon this point there was no room for dispute. The street door had been forcibly burst open. A stout bench and bolt had secured it: but the timber to which they were fastened was old and rotten, and the pressure applied to them had split the wood, and the pressure applied to them had split the wood, and the pressure applied to them had split the wood

For instance, take the vast strides that have been made during the last decade in Chemistry, and by the Surgical and Medical Professions and the thousands of cures effected that were thought impossible a few years back.

Especially is this noticeable in the case of the Animal World. A few years ago it was a common thing to hear of the slaughter of valuable animals, for the simple reason that which is now looked upon as only a temporary ailment that can be cured in a few days; and such is the principal secret of all Veterinary Life? CRICKET AND CYCLING.

[By FACTOTUM.]

The question of the county championship for 1894 has been decided in favour of Surrey, who finished a success by a remarkable performance, beating Sussex by an innings and 10 runs. In their first eleven were twice dismissed for the poor total of 153, Richardson and Lockwood bowling in an irresistible manner. It was truly a great triumph for the Surrey bowlers, in which department the county may be said to be the first in the country.

Yorkshire has run a neck-and-neck race with the Southerners for the championship all through the season, and were only beaten on the post, and that, probably, only through being less fortunate than their opponents. Somerset were faring badly at the hands of the Tykes, but only by the poor batting display and defeat had not the rain prevented the match being proceeded with. Nevertheless, one cannot very well grudge Somerset a hard-fought victory in any instance. I twice vanquishing the men of Yorkshire, and were, in fact, the only one of the competing counties to achieve this difficult task. It was a very hard and interesting struggle all through, and one which will long be remembered amongst followers of the national summer pastime.

Rain disappointed the Ipswich and East Suffolk eleven of their match with the 38th Regiment, but I am glad to say that Gascoyne is not to be deprived of his benefit. The fixture is to take place to-day, when I sincerely hope that a good "gate" will testify their appreciation of the professional's services by turning up with their modest expenses. They may be certain of being rewarded for their capital sport, and, the proceedings, I understand, are to be enlivened by the band of the regiment, which will in itself be well worthy the round sum charged for admission to the Portman Road ground.

Bury and West Suffolk and the College Gate Club attempted once more, on Saturday, to settle the question of superiority, and the game ended in a draw somewhat favourable to the premier Club. I am sorry to notice, however, that the visitors' men in the West Suffolk batting, like that of the other Bury Club, has not been at all up to usual during the present season. The wet weather may have had something to do with this, but that has not altogether accounted for the failure of the batsmen, who have been very weak on big curve in both instances; this, perhaps, has been more noticeable in East Suffolk. Here the crack batsmen of the premier Club have been found out repeatedly of late, and the averages will doubtless prove considerably lower all round than last season.

Apart from the century scored by Mr. Richmond against the Colonial College, no three figure contributions have been recorded either for the Bury or East Suffolk Club, and with the exception alluded to, the Club's "stonewalls" has done but very little indeed. Mr. Tolhurst, the old Ipswich man, has frequently failed to "come off," even against second-rate bowling. The same has been more or less the case with Mr. Ellis, the old Ipswich batsman, but I do hope that another year may produce more favourable experiences to the Club, and that the hope of their defeating may have returned to their wonted form.

One club, however, has to be congratulated on their season's work, viz., Bournemouth. Twice have they lowered the colours of Ipswich and East Suffolk, although on both occasions strong elevens were pitted against them, and the latest victory was gained upon capital bowling talent. Mr. J. F. B. Hayward and Brown (the professional) have been doing excellent work, and the latter is a most useful all-round man. The former is undoubtedly the best amateur trundler in the county, and quite capable of holding his own even against the best professionals. The Bournemouth talent likewise is by no means to be despised, and some very respectable scores have been recorded from several of the club's batsmen this season.

The Ipswich Commercials are evidently looking up. On Saturday they succeeded in gaining their first victory since they tried their hand at the game. It was the occasion of the return engagement with Waterloo House, and the latter had previously received rough treatment. On this occasion, however, the Commercials put together 108 runs, the captain (F. E. Jones) making 31, and Mr. Bailey 25. Mr. Dowsett and T. Buscall also did well. Their opponents made a gross struggle of it, however, only being beaten by eleven runs.

There have been two inter-county cricket matches during the early part of the present week, which have made but small alteration in the appearance of the championship table. Somersetshire and Gloucestershire concluded their fixture on Monday, but the latter ended in the Doctor's team being pegged yet another back-to-be-last, and very unfortunate in escaping a similar fate at the hands of Kent, as their wickets only were required to fall to have given Kent the victory, but "time" came kindly to the rescue.

The championship table, which is now nearly completed, stood on Thursday as under:—

	Tie or not	Plyd.	Won.	Lost.	Drn.	Pld.	Pts.
1. Surrey		16	13	2	0	1	11
2. Yorkshire		16	12	2	0	2	10
3. Middlesex		16	8	5	3	0	3
4. Kent		16	6	6	2	1	0
5. Lancashire		16	6	7	2	0	0
6. Somersetshire		16	6	7	3	0	1
7. Notts		16	4	8	3	0	0
8. Sussex		16	3	9	3	1	0
9. Gloucestershire		16	2	13	1	0	0

The theme amongst Ipswich cyclists during the past week has been the 20 miles open road race of the I.B.C., which is to take place this afternoon. The eventual scratch race is an open question at present, for at the time of writing only a few have known the handicap. If, however, they prove to be as satisfactory as last week's list, there will be little reason for complaint. Most of the old hands are intending to compete, and the race is sure to be one full of interest. One thing I sincerely hope, and that is that the B.C. officials will enforce the prohibition of pacing. This should be done in the interests of cycling itself; it certainly will not do to permit the road with pacemakers as well as competitors, or the authorities, who are somewhat busy nowadays, may take against the monopoly of the "king's highway," and it must be admitted that they would do so with a considerable amount of justice on their side.

One of the great events of the year, the North Road annual 24 hours road race, is likely to be abandoned this season. The reason is a very considerable portion of the course runs through Huntingdonshire, where, as have before mentioned, the police are vigilantly suppressing racing on the roads. The difficulty of procuring another course is obvious, but the officials of the North Road Club, I am informed, are not altogether without hope in this matter. I trust their efforts to overcome the difficulty will be successful, as the fixture is one of great interest.

It has been announced in several cycling journals that a postal vote is to be taken from the various unions affiliated to the International Cyclists' Association, as to whether the world's championships are to be open to all cyclists, both amateurs and professionals, or not. Should the vote be favourable, it is thought that it will not prove to be a very long business before the gentlemen on an equal footing. Why should it not? A cyclist is surely none the worse for being connected with "the trade," or competing for cash prizes, instead of some useless article, which, after all, are frequently turned into hard cash after the event.

At Springfield, Massachusetts, on Monday, Tyler, the bicyclist, covered a mile, with a flying start, in 2 min. 7 3-5th sec., his previous best having been 2 min. 10 1-5th sec. He had at the same time lowered the record for three-quarters of a mile by 3 2-5th secs.

The Yarmouth and Norfolk cyclists are organising an all-night ride up to London on September 8th, when they will be the guests of the Essex Union at High Beech, Epping Forest. This visit is a return to that of the Essex men earlier in the season, which was in some measure marred by bad weather, and which many Ipswich cyclists will remember. It is a good opportunity for some of the latter to join the trippers, who will come through the town, and accompany them to their journey's end.

A cyclist, last week, who was proceeding along Oxford Street, was wilfully run down by a cabman, and on the latter being summoned at the Marylebone Police Court, he was convicted, the evidence looking very black against him, but the Magistrate, after stating "that cyclists were nuisances," let the cabman off with a caution, and the justice of the case would be met with a fine of 1s. and 2s. costs. Such shameful abuse of the powers of a Justice of the Peace ought to be put a stop to, and I trust the matter will be taken up, and appealed to.

Hurst, the French champion, was recently well beaten in a six-hours race by Linton by about 20 miles, the Welshman covering about 135 miles in the allotted time.

The following members of the Ipswich Wheelers' Cycling Club competed in a five mile handicap road race, on Monday evening last, the course being in excellent condition:—Messrs. A. Ashbee, Wyllie, W. Willett, H. H. Willett, H. Oak, T. T. Jarrott, J. Martin, A. Addison, and H. Durrant. The result was as follows:—1st, T. Jarrott, 15min. 45secs.; 2nd, W. E. Willett, 14min. 43secs.; 3rd, H. Oak, 14min. 44secs. Only a second separated third and fourth men. The handicaps were fairly and impartially dealt out, and were heavily handicapped. This being the first race of the club, great interest was evinced among cyclists, many of the best Ipswich riders being present. Refreshments were served to the club to witness the finish. F. F. Bagworth (captain), acted as starter, and Messrs. A. Lee and W. Woolnough, as judges.

On Thursday, by kind invitation of the President, the club spent a very enjoyable afternoon at the meeting at Holbrook, when sports were held. The three mile handicap road race resulted as follows:—1st, H. Durrant; 2nd, H. Webb, 3rd, Martin. Slow bicycle race (winners in final):—1st, H. Durrant; 2nd, J. Martin. A capital tea on the lawn was provided, and light refreshments during the afternoon by the President. After a pleasant run the party arrived in Ipswich about 9 o'clock.

Sayings are characteristic of nations. There is more in this than people often think; for instance, a favourite British saying is "Believe everyone to tell the truth till he proves the contrary." Other nations say "Believe nothing of a beautiful maid he proves otherwise." Mark the contrast! Without claiming undue credit, it is obvious that in the former there is fairness, in the latter there is folly. Of course, to justly claims to prevent, cure, and heal, in cases of diarrhœa, colic, and colds, and is most invaluable for children cutting their teeth. Sold in all quarters. Trovatols is perfectly safe for old and young. This is a truth about Trovatols. Sold by Trovatols Co. in bottles, 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d. Agents:—Messrs. Cornell and Cornell, Chemists, Tavern Street, Ipswich.

HANDFORD COTTAGE SOCIAL OUTING.—On Saturday about twenty friends of Mr. Marsh, landlord of the Handford Cottage, proceeded to Chalmondiston Lion and indulged in a capital dinner, provided by Mr. Goodchild in splendid form. A substantial repast was provided by host and hostess Crane, which, after doing ample done justice to, a very enjoyable evening was spent in song and toast. Mr. Marsh, the worthy landlord, presided, Mr. Burrows acting as vice, supported by Mr. Watts and Mr. Burrows, the vicechair being filled by Mr. F. Smith, who carried out their several duties in a highly satisfactory manner. Before all present, the conviviality being kept up till nine p.m., when a start was made for home, arriving at Ipswich at 10.30 p.m.

IPSWICH WORKING GIRLS AT BAWDSEY.—On Saturday, through the kindness and generosity of Mr. Cuthbert Quilter, M.P., the members of the Working Girls' Club and Institute held their annual outing to Bawdsey Manor, the party numbering 160. The journey was made by the s.s. Merrimac. Bawdsey was reached about one o'clock, and the party met with a very warm welcome at the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Quilter. The girls were invited to a sumptuous repast, and then amusements were indulged in, the girls thoroughly enjoying the visit. The following were the winners in choir of the club sang a few glees, and Miss Laws proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Quilter for his great kindness in allowing the members of the club to again visit his delightful residence upon the cliff. Mr. Quilter responded by saying how exceedingly pleased he was to see the members of the Working Girls' Club, and Mrs. Quilter and family, and each member of the club had received a bouquet, the party returned to Ipswich.

DEATH OF DR. S. PIPER: HIS CONNECTION WITH IPSWICH.—Many of our readers will learn with regret of the death, at the age of 81, of Dr. Stephen Piper, brother of Mr. J. Dixon Piper, of Ipswich, and himself well known in Ipswich. Dr. Stephen Piper, deceased, was the oldest medical practitioner in Darlington. The deceased gentleman, after receiving his diploma, became as a medical practitioner, and was well known in the profession throughout the North of England. About 1850 he settled in Darlington, and practised there for many years, until a few years since, when advancing years induced him to relinquish his office. Dr. Piper, in his early days, was a friend of Mr. Pease, M.P., and a contingent to Spain, nearly sixty years ago, in a medical capacity, and for two years was engaged in the stirring scenes of that campaign. He was a short resident in London, he made Darlington his home. He married a sister of the Town Clerk of Darlington. His widow and a family survive him.

AN ALDERSON DRESSMAKER SUMMONED.—At Woodbridge Petty Sessions, on Wednesday, Mrs. Rosamond Fitchett, of Aldeburgh, was summoned for a breach of the Factory and Workshops Act, 1878. Mr. Thomas C. Hall, Inspector of Factory Inspectors, stated that he visited the defendant's workshop on Saturday, August 4th, at 5.30 p.m., and found Clara Rivers at work sewing buttons on a bodice. There was no notice or abstract of the Act affixed in the place. In defence, Mrs. Fitchett said she did not understand she was under the Factory Act, and she had never been warned. She had only one paid hand, and she ought thought that to come under the Factory Acts she must employ at least three hands. The Chairman said the Bench had no option but to convict, but they considered it was a trivial case to bring before them; therefore only inflicted a fine of 6d., and 17s. 2d. costs.

ANGLING AT BECCLES.—An angling competition was held by the Caxton Club, at Beccles, on Saturday, when about sixty prizes were won by Mr. W. Upcraft for the largest catch; Mr. H. Barker for the best fish, and Mr. T. Rackham for the best half-dozen.

SUDDEN DEATH AT BEDINGFIELD.—Mr. C. W. Chaston (county coroner), on Monday, held an inquest at the Church Farm Cottage, Bedingfield, relative to the death of Mrs. Ann Hammond, wife of George Hammond, labourer, which occurred on Saturday. The evidence showed that the deceased had been enjoyed good health up to Saturday. About half-past six deceased went and called her daughter and returned to bed, but on her daughter's going to her mother's room shortly before eight she found her mother lying in her bed quite dead. Dr. Wright, of Eye, thought death probably was due to heart disease. The jury returned a verdict to that effect.

HARLESTON BOWLERS AT BUNGAY.—A friendly match was played on the White Lion Bowling Green, Bungay, on Monday, between 12 members of the Bungay Club and a team from Harleston under Major Bond. Play was arranged at 11 o'clock, when Bungay was found to be the winner with 16 games to Harleston's 12. A most pleasant day was spent.

SALE OF WORK AT BUNGAY.—The annual sale of Work on behalf of the C.E.Z.M.S. was held at the St. Mary's Parish Room on Wednesday. The stalls were presided over by Miss Bellman, Miss Baker, Mrs. Fred. Howard, Mrs. H. Howard, Miss L. Adkin, Miss Sadd, Miss M. Cole, Miss Woodroffe, Miss E. Bowles, and Miss P. H. L. Owies. The proceeds amounted to £28 10s.

BOWLS AT BUNGAY.—A friendly match was played on the White Lion Bowling Green on Monday between twelve members of the Bungay Club and a team of the like number from Harleston formed by Major Bond. The Bungay players consisted of Capt. Smith, Messrs. L. Mardenell, C. Adkin, Woodroffe, Smith, Youngman, H. Woolnough, C. Caddon, J. Vaines, A. Lowe, J. Bedwell, E. Clay, and W. Howlett. Sergt. Daley acted as marker. Bungay won with 16 games to Harleston's 12. Tea was afterwards served by hostess Till in the Clubhouse.

GADEN PARTY AT DITCHINGHAM.—A garden party was held at Mr. Rider Haggard's, Ditchingham House, on Wednesday. The visitors were entertained at tennis and croquet, followed by an inspection of a lambe stall and dancing on a boarded floor to wind up. During the afternoon a conjuring entertainment was conducted through the house, and shown various curios collected by Mr. Haggard from the various countries he has visited. Young's Band was in attendance. Over 1,000 persons entered the gates during the day. The proceeds amounted to £200, and were in aid of the banking apparatus for Ditchingham parish church.

The Ipswich Journal
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1st.

The result of the Hyde Park demonstration was hailed throughout the kingdom as a fresh illustration of the HOUSE OF LORDS.

extreme section of the Radical and Nationalist party that popular feeling was in favour of the ending of the House of Lords. Whether they were justified in their complaint or not that the Hereditary Chamber constituted a serious social evil by interfering in the process of beneficent legislation, the state of feeling as displayed by the audience gathered round the platforms on Sunday implies a recognition of the House of Lords as a necessary institution. There was not the least enthusiasm shown in the proceedings, and, taken as an indication of the hostility of the masses against the House of Lords, the demonstration must be regarded as a failure. Indeed, the apathy and at times the good-humour shown by the people go to confirm the general view that the position of the House of Lords is stronger to-day than at any previous period in modern history. The following extract from a letter forwarded us by a correspondent clearly indicates the measure of support that the Government are likely to receive at the next election should this cry of "Down with the Lords" be made the test question. "Whichever platform you turned to," writes our informant, "you heard the same 'arguments' against the Peers, and these were so stale that they would not be worth recording in any form if it were not for the fact that the interruptions showed distinctly that there were two elements in the crowds, and also a welcome spice of humour. Some of the gems were, 'The will of about five hundred great families cannot long withstand the more powerful will of the masses,' with the interposition from the outer fringe of the crowd of 'Bosh,' and cries of, 'The will of the Irish gang at Westminster.' 'The Peers,' said one speaker, 'as a body have shown how utterly incapable they are of understanding the signs of the times, of rightly appreciating the march of events, and weighing the consequences of their own rash and impracticable acts, and this was met with loud cries of, 'They understand the wants of the English majority.' 'Many questions are cropping up,' said another speaker, 'as to the right of a handful of men to set at naught the solemn decision of those elected by the constituencies to do the nation's work and register its decrees,' and from all parts of the crow

IMMIGRATION FROM THE HEATHEN LAND OF THE WORLD.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION AT READING.

THE SMALL-POX OUTBREAK.

[By Our London Correspondents.]

Friday Midnight.

The fact just made public by the London County Council that for the first time on record emigration from the Metropolis exceeded immigration to it in the decade ended with 1891, has greatly raised the spirits of some who had begun to despair of the ever-growing mass of misery here. It is of importance, too, to the whole country, for it means that the rage of the rural labourer to leave the soil has been checked. "How has it came about?" is asked. The light thrown on "out-cast London" ten or twelve years ago has had something to do with it, opening the eyes of our villagers to the knowledge that misfortune in London often means out of the frying-pan into the fire.

The great dock strike, with its further revelation of he wretchedness of thousands in the Metropolis, strengthened the impression. Finally the Allotment and Small Holding Acts of the Unionist Government, their establishment of County Councils, and their promise to add District and Parish Councils—promise carried out by their successors—encouraged many agricultural labourers to stay at home. It is hoped and believed here that these measures will not only add to the inducements to remain on the land, but may so increase the value of building sites as to start a decided movement from London to the rural districts. This hope is fortified by the enthusiasm with which allotments on the Isle of Dogs and at Abbey Mills have been welcomed.

"Hobbes's Folly" is a name well known to Londoners, and yet many of them fail to connect it with the immense, empty, though not unhandsome building which for a year or two has dwarfed everything else on the Embankment. It is the new Grand Junction Hotel, beloved of wealthy visitors from the Continent and America. Strangers were quite puzzled by the notice. They felt that it must be important. Never theless they at last found some lady who knew anything about it. "Hobbes's Folly" is one of the assets in connection with the Liberator Societies. Always interesting, it promises to be more so, for the official receiver, finding it impossible to sell or let the place on satisfactory terms, has decided to embark on the experiment (perhaps unprecedented in the annals of the Bankruptcy Court) of converting it into a hotel to be worked for the benefit of the victims of the Liberator crash.

The Bankruptcy Court responsible for the management of a hotel—for that is what the scheme amounts to—is worth making a note of. The receiver is doing the work on a colossal scale. Nearly a million will have been spent on the building when finished. With 250 bedrooms, it will be the largest hotel in the world. Big as the edifice is, it is to be made bigger. The additions are to enclose a great courtyard. Salisbury Street, Strand, has been demolished to make way for an entrance, and another will overlook the Embankment. It is hoped, and is likely, that the unfortunate Liberator shareholders will reap a rich harvest from the venture.

The character of the preparations which have been made at the Local Government Board to meet any possible attack of cholera is certainly noteworthy. Medical inspectors have, I find, been appointed to investigate suspicious cases in any part of the country. At Whitehall itself a daily record is kept of all these cases, and the most careful and extended reports are demanded in each instance. All available material is subjected to a rigid bacteriological investigation. While this is in so, a special staff keenly observes the progress of the disease on the Continent, and the places which are regarded as centres of contagion—Marseilles is one of them—are watched with a singularly close attention. As a result the officers of the Local Government Board have simply formed themselves into a sanitary intelligence department, with an emergency staff always ready for action. The reason for this activity is to be found in the fact that the authorities anticipate the next four weeks with a certain amount of foreboding.

I hear that once more Dr Collingridge is being urged by many of the most prominent advisers of the navy that unless the water-drinking habit is to obtain means a catastrophe will be made possible. The inefficiency of sailors is, of course, the most significant fact in connection with the present condition of the navy, and its importance has been aggravated by the apparent inability to obtain stokers and engineers. This fact now confronts Lord Spencer, that two sources of supply hitherto relied on have failed. The ordinary method of recruiting is found to be unproductive; the reservists simply refuse to come up for the months on board men-of-war. However, these two sources cannot be abandoned because of this. They must still be resorted to. In fact there is nothing else to be done. What, however, is to be done with the drink? It is to at once increase the attractiveness of the navy—to offer an increased rate of pay, to give a more sympathetic ear to the claims of the warrant officers, and to make promotion easier. Lord Spencer, it must be confessed, is in sympathy with the Temperance movement. However, hitherto he has been defeated in the desire he has expressed in this direction by his own colleagues.

The keeper of the monkey-house in the Jardin des Plantes at Paris has for some days past been puzzled by seeing his monkeys smoking cigarettes. The wits of Paris declare that some learned professors were just about to issue an exhaustive paper on the subject of monkeys and tobacco from the natural history when the keeper solved the mystery. He lay in wait near the cage, and at last caught some boys, who had taught the monkeys to smoke, and came every day to give them lighted cigarettes. The boys have been taken to the Police Station, and the masters' studies have been relegated to the waste-paper basket.

Unwittingly most of the newspapers have done an injustice to the memory of the late Prince Duleep Singh. It is not fair that he should be described as at first appeared from the statement of the sale of his personal effects. The expensive amateur's lathe, the costly tools for fancy turning, watchmaking, and other crafts, the Berthon boats, the drags and Sedilia powders were his; but not the battery of breech-loading guns nor the thirty pneumatic bicycles. These belonged to other owners, and were added to the catalogue to fill up the sale. It is only fair to the successors, Messrs. Debenham, Tewson, and Son, to say that they did not attribute the ownership of the guns and bicycles to the late Maharajah.

During the past year agriculture has been made a subject of study at the University Extension College at Reading, and great success has attended the experiment. Lying as Reading does in the heart of a great agricultural district, the college has become one of the best institutions in the kingdom for the particular purpose. The practical part of the education must be got upon farms, and, to the credit of the great landowners round about Reading, thirteen experimental stations have been established on their estates in the surrounding counties, where a comprehensive course of instruction can be obtained. I observe that a similar college is about to be opened at Wye, which will probably also branch out into a series of departments for Sussex and Kent. If the great landowners there take up the idea with the same liberality and alacrity as those around Reading have manifested, a career of usefulness also awaits it, and the next generation of British agriculturists may look upon their profession with less desponding thought than the present generation are compelled to do.

The smallpox outbreak is in a state of uncertainty whether to collapse altogether or to break out into a respectable epidemic. A few new cases are from day to day recorded, but the watchful authorities lay instant hold of them, and put the poor victims under solitary confinement in an isolation hospital. Meanwhile the anti-vaccinationists clamour for the report of the Royal Commission.

Austrian matrimonial advertisements, according to the Telegraph's correspondent at Vienna, are marked by an acceptable humorous audacity. Here, for instance, is one that ran for six or seven days:—"I Wanted, a rich lady—no matter how old—who will furnish me with means of medicine until such time as I obtain his degree, when I intend to engage to marry his benefactress." And another is quoted wherein a young prince seeks a handsome girl with a dowry of not less than £250,000 in English money. When the desired mate is obtained all one's needs are apparently satisfied, judging from this advertisement. Here is another chaser for "a well-trained monkey, a talkative parrot, and a beautiful sympathetic cat," which "belong to a lady, who, owing to her approaching marriage, has no further use for them."

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

BUMBLEDOM IN SUFFOLK.

HOW AN OVERSEER WAS DELUDED.

AMUSING RESULT OF A BIGAMY.

THE "KNOCKOUT" AT RYE.

Ipswich, Friday.

It is often claimed to be the birthright of a Briton to grumble and not infrequently is that prerogative exercised. How often do we hear over-burdened and over-taxed ratepayers bewailing the extravagance of town councils, local boards, boards of guardians, overseers and other money-spending authorities, but after all there is not at the present time (thanks to an outspoken and healthy public opinion) the same cause for complaint, and consequently that in regard to "Bumbledom," as was the case some twenty or even ten years ago. Still it is profitable and interesting to occasionally take a peep into the past and realise the extraordinarily heavy burdens which overseers and boards of guardians were in the habit of perpetrating. Dr. J. M. Rhodes, of Didsbury, Lancashire, a well-known authority on poor-law questions, is contributing a series of articles on the subject to the columns of the Cheshire Evening Echo, which are as interesting as they are instructive.

Speaking of the old overseers, the writer remarks that their "rule was one of wilful waste. Some of the worst cases of this shameful waste of public money are found in the bills sent in for those 'marriages of necessity,' where the expenses of the marriage of the pauper were paid by the overseers to avoid the cost of a future young pauper. It was not an unknown thing for a rural parish to spend £20, or even £30 a-year on marriages of this kind. Sometimes the amount so expended was anything but a lucrative investment on the part of the overseers, as the cost to a parish not far from Ipswich found to his cost. A widow with a family was a very troublesome pauper. A man belonging to the town of Ipswich was induced to marry her by the promise of a marriage portion of £6. The overseer, to make all sure, attended the wedding feast and dined with the newly-married couple. Two years afterwards it turned out that the man had tricked the overseer, as he had been married before, so the result was that the overseer found himself in the unlucky position of having to support the widow and her original family, plus two that had been born since the bigamous marriage took place. The overseer of that parish, who Dr. Rhodes, "had evidently taken Lady Teazle's advice and 'left morality altogether out of the question.'"

While it would appear that the G.E.R. Company possesses a monopoly of energy and enterprise—both of which invariably benefit the public—it is gratifying to learn that the travelling public fully appreciate the great facilities which this Company offer of visiting the east coast watering-places. Twelve months ago last January the Great Eastern abolished second-class on all their boats, distance being no consideration, and the statement of a leading official who has been interviewed by a metropolitan contemporary, the change has proved a wise one, inasmuch as it has greatly simplified the working of the steamers. The Company also declare that the proportion of second-class passengers is so small as to be unworthy special consideration. To many people the arrangement for three classes has been looked upon as somewhat of a humbug, and we venture to say that we have nothing but the kind words of the travellers when we say that were the third class abolished, and the first and second allowed to remain matters would be still further simplified. Will the G.E.R. be the first company to make the innovation, seeing that during the last completed year they carried more passengers than any other line in the kingdom?

Of late years swimming competitions have grown enormously in popularity in Suffolk, and in Ipswich in particular—thanks to the splendid baths which the town possesses, and the dissemination of the natatory art by the Ipswich Swimming Club. The pleasure of this particular recreation has also been very much enhanced by the fact that, instead of the old-fashioned bathers to enjoy, almost at their own doors, the invigoration of an ocean dip.

The parapets of Ipswich, like most old towns, are already uncomfortably narrow; but when tradesmen decide to monopolise the footpath by exhibiting samples of their goods and lowering their sunshades until an average sized man or woman is unable to pass either without seriously disturbing their head gear, the discomfort to pedestrians is increased tenfold. Were all tradesmen to display their goods in the profusion which some of their competitors do, an end would be put to the wide pavements of our new dwelling, that of a clear passage through the thoroughfares which the public have to maintain.

According to a contemporary the inhabitants of Cromer are in a bad way and are in want of a new means of advertisement. When so unintelligent a fowl as the seagull can play a practical joke on seaside visitors by imitating the sea-serpent, the poor old inhabitants are driven to their wits' end. Thus it is that the August seaside tripper is "gulled."

The iteration of a tune which now is whistled, again sung, and a third time played on the piano or other instrument, becomes irritating to persons with a refined musical ear. Municipal regulations exist almost without number, but unhappily we have not heard of any which can be brought to bear against those fiends of the Bull" and "He dunno where 'e are."

Advertising to a case at the last sitting of the Eye County Court, the question of "book cut" after sale, in which considerable local interest was manifested, the Property Market Review says:—"It is difficult, on the facts stated, to see in what the alleged warranty was supposed to consist. Apparently he bought the article in its condition as described in a volume upon the description in the catalogue, and not upon any statement made by the defendant to him. It could hardly be effectually contended that the defendant by passing the goods on to the plaintiff adopted the description in the catalogue and made it his own. In the absence of independent affirmation on his part, there would appear to have been no such representation by him as to the nature or quality of the article which he sold as would entitle us to would constitute what the law regards as a warranty.

Homing pigeon fanciers in the Eastern Counties may be interested to learn the fact that our Continental neighbours pay more attention to the encouragement of these birds for national purposes. Germany is said to possess the most efficient pigeon service in Europe, but it is rapidly equalled for military purposes on shore. Italy, Austria, and the United States have their letter's service being in a high state of efficiency—all employ pigeons for naval uses; and it is also reported by the authorities at Key West that they habitually receive messages from ships 100 miles out at sea, well-trained birds being dispatched upon the receipt of news of the approach of storms of wind and rain. The carrier pigeon is invariably, but likewise erroneously, spoken of as the bird used for conveying small parcels and news despatches. The carrier has no weight to carry, but is simply trained to return to its home, the instinct of locality being made on the animals, as there were no means of ulceration of the nostrils or other symptoms of glanders.—Defendant was fined £5 with £5 14s. 10d. costs.

ROMANTIC ADVENTURE IN ESSEX.

LOVERS CONSENT TO DIE TOGETHER.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S REMARKABLE STORY.

EXTRAORDINARY PROCEDURE.

A most remarkable story told to the Romford police on Monday is being investigated. Emily Spooner, aged 21, daughter of Mr. Thomas Spooner, of Heath Farm, Orsett, Essex, was charged on Monday, July 31, with Terrace, Southend, went out on Saturday evening, but did not return. On Monday morning her parents found her at the house of a married woman, living at 25, Waterloo Road, Romford; she had gaping wounds on the left side of her neck, and was unconscious and very ill. To the police she made an extraordinary confession. She said that a solicitor's clerk, to whom she was engaged to be married, had left her, and that she was despondent, as he had failed in an examination, and intended to commit suicide. She met him at Southend on Saturday, and—

THEY PROMISED TO DIE TOGETHER.

They went into the garden of a public-house, which did not prove fatal. They fell into a ditch and got soaked with dirty water. The young man pulled her head back, and proposed to let her kill him, after which he was to kill himself. He then inflicted the wounds on her and cut his own throat. They lost much blood, and fell down. After lying unconscious for a time, they took train for Ilford and she came on to Romford. The girl's wounds are not serious. He has been ascertained that the young man is Arthur Roland Hill, who lodges at Ecclesbourne, Clements Wood Estate, Ilford. On Sunday evening Mr. Spooner, of Heath Farm, was at Chadwell Heath Station, near Dagenham, for sixpence, to pay a railway fare. On Monday afternoon a lady's purse was found in a field by Mr. Spooner, when Mr. Spooner alleges the attempted suicides took place, and the cape has been identified as belonging to her.

A FOOLISH SUFFOLK LABOURER

IMPUDENT THEFT OF A FOWL.

Ambrose Sparrow, labourer, was charged at the Clare Petty Sessions on Monday with stealing a chicken and two eggs, the property of George Eley, farmer, Little Thurlow. He was fined 10s., in default seven days' hard labour.

SINGULAR CASE AT HOPTON.

A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Maud Bush, a girl of twelve, was charged at Ixworth on Monday with assaulting Mary Morries, a child of five years of age, at Hopton. The chairman (the Duke of Grafton) suggested that the parties should settle the matter out of Court, which they ultimately did.

BRUTAL ASSAULT BY A HOPTON LABOURER.

HEAVY PENALTY.

At Ixworth, on Monday, Fredk. Simper, labourer, of Honington, was charged on bail with assaulting Elvine Simper. Defendant struck complainant and knocked her down. Another blow struck her against the fence severely on the face and neck.—Police-constable Folger, who picked her up, described the assault as a brutal one.—Defendant was fined £1 and costs £2 2s. 6d., and was bound over in £5 to keep the peace for six months. The Chairman remarking that the Bench thought it a very brutal assault.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, COLCHESTER.

RESTORATION DECIDED UPON.

A largely-attended vestry meeting was held at St. Peter's Church, Colchester, on Tuesday, to consider the question of restoring the church.—The vicar (the Rev. J. M. Lister), who presided, explained the proposed plans of Messrs. King and Lister, which showed complete restoration in the Perpendicular style, the whole of the exterior old work being the lower basis course. —Replying to a question, the Chairman said that the cost of carrying out the scheme was estimated at £4,000, including the architect's fees. The Perpendicular windows at the side might be left out, and that would reduce the cost to about £3,000.—The plans were approved.

A SUFFOLK HERO.

GALLANT CONDUCT OF A LOWESTOFT BOY.

A CHIEF'S RESCUE FROM A WATERY GRAVE.

A lad named J. H. Beall, 14 years of age, son of the chief officer of the Coastguards, performed a gallant service in rescuing a cripple from the yacht basin. The latter was a boy about ten years old, named James Flynt, who had accidentally slipped, and he fell into the water. Without divesting himself of a particle of clothing, Beall jumped into the basin, and as Flynt was almost sinking he caught him, and kept him afloat until both were able to safely get ashore with the help of another man.

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY AT YARMOUTH.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE ON A FEMALE

A WELL-DESERVED SENTENCE.

On Monday, at Great Yarmouth Police Court, Sarah Ann Ackerman, belonging to Thorpe, was charged with violently assaulting Hannah Flynt, and stealing from her the sum of 5s.—Prosecutrix, who appeared in the witness-box with two black eyes and was otherwise sick for handsome, stated that she was a single woman, living in Row 30. On Friday she met the prisoner and another man in Howard Street, and they followed her. Later on the prisoner struck her in her eye, and knocked her down. She then got up, and knocked her down, taking the amount stated in the charge from her pockets as she lay on the ground.—Prisoner, when arrested, said, "All right, old Liverpool; I expected you would be after me." Prisoner admitted the assault, but denied taking the money.—A sentence of three months' hard labour, with imprisonment, without the option of a fine, was inflicted.

SAILING NEAR TO THE WIND.

ALLEGED FRAUD BY A DOVERCOURT FARMER.

On Monday, at the Colchester Police Court, Edward May Sewell, farmer, of 10, Manor Road, Dovercourt, was charged with stealing, on the 15th inst., in the presence, obtained from Emma Smith the sum of 19s. 9d.—Mrs. Smith said she lived in St. John's Street, Colchester, and was a spinster. Defendant called at her house and told her that he knew of a gentleman who would pay her a guinea a week for apartments. He said that the gentleman was a cripple, and that he was of great benefit to her, and by which she might make £3 15s. in a month. He had come to Colchester to

APPOINT AN AGENT FOR PATENT SHEARING

to be placed over wash-stands, and would sell her one for £1 10s. She paid him the money, but he did not call. She gave him 18s. 9d., but she failed to sell the splashers. Defendant did not name the time during which the splashers would call for the splashers.—The Chairman said that the Magistrates did not think it was a case in which a jury would convict, although they were of opinion that defendant had been strongly censured by the bench. They discharged defendant.

SUFFOLK RETURNING OFFICERS

THEIR COSTS REVISED.

County Council Election Returning Officers' costs formed the principal item in the report of the General Purposes Committee to the East Suffolk County Council on Tuesday. The Committee recommended that the following scale be adopted in East and West Suffolk until the 1st July, 1895:—For each Electoral Division where there is a borough: For an uncontested election, £6 10s.; for a contested election, £25. For each Electoral Division in a borough: for an uncontested election, £4 10s.; for a contested election, £20. This scale to include all payments out of pocket and all other charges.—Discussion took place as to the scale of charges, and Mr. Legge moved that they be referred back to Committee. He thought £25 an excessive amount to allow for an ordinary polling district.—Mr. Barnard Sparkes-Crisp, Ipswich, also said the matter could not be referred back, as West Suffolk had adopted it, and it would be brought up again on July 1st next year. The scale of charges was approved by 27 votes to nine.

SUFFOLK VETS. AT LOGGERHEADS.

EXTRAORDINARY DIFFERENCES OF OPINION.

A FARMER SUFFERS FOR THEM.

At Samford Petty Sessions on Tuesday, before Captain A. H. Morse (chairman) and the Rev. J. H. Hocking, Mr. John Keeble, farmer, of Brantham, was summoned for unlawfully causing possession cattle diseased to be driven on the highway.—Mr. Sheppard, for the horses, within the meaning of the Glanders or Farcy Act, 1892, and did not give notice of the affection to the police of the district in which the animals were.—Mr. F. J. W. Wood prosecuted, and Mr. E. P. Ridley defended.—For the prosecution it was stated that the defendant had a horse affected with discharge of glanders in three horses in his possession by veterinary surgeons, and in spite of that had not taken any precautions whatever.—Mr. Ridley, for the prosecution, said the charges he had intended to prefer against the defendant were those of embezzlement and one of larceny, as Mr. King, the principal witness, found that £190 had been appropriated. Mr. King was a poor man, but the Police Court had just heard the bottom was all gone.—After hearing an eloquent appeal for mercy from the prisoner's solicitor, the Chairman said the Magistrates had taken into account the mitigation everything that had been said in his favour, but they thought the smallest sentence they could pass was one of three months' hard labour.

"WHAT THEY DO IN AMERICA."

AN ESSEX BOY'S BRUTALITY.

A BABY ALMOST BITTEN TO DEATH.

EXTRAORDINARY EBULLITION OF TEMPER.

John Baxter Phillips, a lad of twelve, was charged at the West Ham Police Court on Saturday with causing bodily harm to his brother, Albert Phillips, aged two, by biting him about the face and body. The evidence showed that the prisoner, one of a family of three, five weeks ago came home from a grandmother's in America to his mother's house. Prisoner was left in charge of the baby. On Friday his mother went out to work at nine o'clock, and on returning at dinner-time she found the prisoner was not in the house. The baby was on the bed with

A BLANKET OVER ITS FACE,

and it was quite unconscious. It was bleeding from several parts of the body, and the bed clothes were also marks on its body. The mother at once decided to take it to a doctor's, and on the way spoke to Constable Hopkins. Dr. Crompton examined the baby, and found it suffering from a great number of recent contusions, the result of bites. Search was made for the prisoner, and at about ten o'clock at night he was found by his mother in the Broadway, Stratford. She asked him how he came to bite the child, and he answered, "It provoked my temper, and I could not help it," and he also said he had on the back of the head. On the way to the West Ham Police Station prisoner remarked, "My temper has got me to do it. If I had only had a knife I would have ripped it up, and showed them what they do in America."—Prisoner was committed for trial.

DONE IT WITH THE HAND-BRUSH

ESSEX AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

SOUTHEND FOR NEXT YEAR'S SHOW.

A deputation from Southend-on-Sea waited upon the Council of the Essex Agricultural Society on Monday and invited them to hold the next annual show of the Society in their borough. The invitation was cordially accepted. It is nearly 14 years since an agricultural show was held at Southend.

MINE FLOODED.

SERIOUS DAMAGE.

A stream of water has broken into the workings of Eppleton Colliery, one of the group owned by the Hetton Coal Company, and stoppages of working operations. A large number of men have been rendered idle in consequence. Every effort is being made to stop the inrush of water.

THE NEW TORPEDO GUNBOAT.

A SUCCESSFUL TRIP.

The new torpedo gunboat Harrier, off Plymouth, had a very successful eight hours' steam trial. Her engines, with natural draught, developed 2,096 horse-power, or nearly 200 beyond the guarantee, and her speed was 18 knots an hour, against 16·9 and 17·3 attained by her sister vessels Halcyon and Hazard. Mr. H. J. Bakewell, engineer inspector, represented the Admiralty.

PRICE OF WATER AT BRIGHTON.

REVISED SCALE OF CHARGES ADOPTED.

At a special meeting of the Thetford Town Council on Friday, Alderman Billings presiding, the Water-works Committee recommended that the scale of charges for water for trade purposes should be revised, and suggested that, instead of a charge of 9d. per 1,000 gallons by meter, it should be 8d., and the minimum charge 3d. per quarter, in addition to meter rental. After discussion, the recommendations of the Committee were adopted.

FIRE AT IPSWICH.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE TO THE ROOF.

About noon on Wednesday an outbreak of fire occured in a hay and straw loft at the rear of a general shop, kept by Mr. George Marshall, 2, East Street, Ipswich. Fire Brigade under Deputy-Supt. W. Hayward promptly answered the alarm with the hose reel. The steamer was got ready, but was not required. A strong force of water was thrown on to the fire, and it was soon well in hand. It is not extinguished, however, before the roof had been extensively damaged, a portion 12ft. long and 10ft. wide being destroyed. The damage is covered by insurance.

A WOMAN'S HARD FATE.

EIGHT CHILDREN AND NO WORK.

THE MOTHER ABANDONS HOPE.

Sophia Rooney, a poorly-dressed woman, appeared at the Mansion House with a baby in her arms charged with attempting suicide at Blackfriars. She jumped from the steps into the water, but was rescued by a boat. In answer to the charge she remarked, "It was all through trouble, having eight children to keep, my husband out of work, and my goods have been turned out of the house." The husband, whose statement proved to be true, said that he had been unable to get work at his trade (that of a smith) owing to foreign competition. Sir S. Knill discharged the prisoner, who was given temporary relief from the funds of the poor-box.

THE CONTEST AT LEICESTER.

RESULT OF THE POLLING.

The polling at Leicester took place on Wednesday, and the result was announced at a late hour on Thursday, as follows:—

Mr. H. Broadhurst (L)	9465
Mr. W. Hazell (C)	7184
Mr. J. F. L. Rolleston (C) ...	6967
Mr. Burgess (Labour)	4402

At the last three previous elections the results were as follow:—In 1892 Sir Charles Whitehead and Mr. Picton were unopposed. The figures at the elections in 1885 and 1886 were:—1885: Mr. J. Picton (R), 11,480; Mr. A. M'Arthur (R), 11,121; Major Millican (C), 6,750; Radical majority, 4,371. 1886, Mr. J. A. Picton (R), 9,94 ; Mr. Broadhurst (R), 9,681; Mr. R. Bickerstelh (U), 5,698; Radical majority, 3,995.

ATTEMPTED MURDER OF A STEPMOTHER AT CAMBRIDGE.

PRISONER FURTHER REMANDED.

On Monday, at Cambridge Police Court, Samuel Jackson (22), billiard marker, was charged on remand with feloniously wounding Mary Ann Jackson, his stepmother, at Chesterton, on Saturday last, with a razor with intent to murder her, at Maid's Causeway, on August 14th.—Mr. Thomas Greer, surgeon, stated that Mrs. Jackson was still under his care.—Prisoner was remanded until Tuesday, September 4th.

BOAT CAPSIZED AT FELIXSTOWE

THE OCCUPANTS SWIM FOR LIFE.

NARROW ESCAPES.

An exciting accident was witnessed during the race for beach sailing boats at Felixstowe Regatta on Monday. Instructor Ballard had been placed in the sailing boat Carrie, and on an attempt being made to tack she was turned turtle. The occupants were Mr. A. Parnell, son of Captain Parnell, R.N., Simpson, and Mr. A. Castle, but luckily all could swim. The nearest boat was about half a mile distant, but the assistance of the life-boat coxswain in the Coastguard boat was quickly available and he proceeded to the rescue. The trio were little the worse for the ducking, although they had to remain fully a quarter of an hour in the water in their clothes.

SHOPPING WITH A DEAD BODY.

MOTHER INTOXICATED WHILE A CHILD DIES IN HER ARMS.

Johanna Horrigan, London, started to go shopping with her sister. In her arms she carried her two-months-old baby wrapped in two shawls. At half-past two the sister introduced her to a public-house, and at the inquest the sister said all they had to drink was a glass of beer each. The Coroner was afraid they probably had had more than that. Dr. Jones, who had said the witness, was due to excitement. Dr. Jones, of 63, Leman Street, said the child was brought to his surgery at 5 o'clock in the evening. It had been dead an hour. The cause was suffocation. In answer to the Coroner, the doctor said the women were the worse for drink—the grandmother, Mrs. Ann Lynch, had left them in the street and carried it to his surgery. Eventually the jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death."

A NORWICH AUCTIONEER IMPRISONED.

CONVICTED OF DEFRAUDING HIS EMPLOYER.

On Friday, at the Norwich Guildhall, Albert Edward Howlett, auctioneer, of Clarendon Road, was charged with embezzling the sums of £4, £5, and £8, the money of the firm of A. E. Hewlett and Co., of which he was a partner, with Arthur Ernest Hewlett.—Mr. Bacon, for the prosecution, said the charges he had intended to prefer against the prisoner were those of embezzlement and one of larceny, as Mr. King, the principal witness, found that £190 had been appropriated. Mr. King was a poor man, but the Police Court had just heard the bottom was all gone.—After hearing an eloquent appeal for mercy from the prisoner's solicitor, the Chairman said the Magistrates had taken into account the mitigation everything that had been said in his favour, but they thought the smallest sentence they could pass was one of three months' hard labour.

TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION IN SUFFOLK.

BUTTER AND CHEESEMAKING CLASSES A SUCCESS.

The East Suffolk County Council on Tuesday confirmed the joint scheme of their Sub-committee and a Sub-committee of the Ipswich Council, and a committee for providing instruction in agricultural chemistry and the principles of agriculture at Ipswich. It was also resolved to apply to the Technical Instruction to recommend the Council to make an order for the payment of £1,300 to the Secretary of the Committee, Mr. D. T. Cowan, to meet the deficiency for the year. The minutes up to November 30th.—Mr. Cowan's report stated that very conducted by the Eastern Counties' Dairy Institute, had been held at eleven places, where the greater part of the pupils were farmers' daughters. Cheese-making classes for Stilton and other cheeses, conducted by Miss M. E. Willard, had been held at Ipswich, Bramfield, Debenham, and Yoxford. The course of practical lectures delivered by Mr. P. Cowan, M.R.C.V.S., of Ipswich and Saxmundham had given satisfaction alike to the farmers and the Sub-committee. The average attendance, 35, warranted the Committee in engaging to have the lectures continued next winter. The shepherds' class completed its work with an examination held on the 30th July, at Bucklesham, and conducted by a Committee of Examiners, viz., Mr. J. O. Dawson, Nacton; Mr. Joseph Smith, Hasketon; and Mr. Hooper, Woodbridge. In the close of the course of lectures 15 of the shepherds sent in their names for examination, of which number nine passed the examination successfully. The Committee, having the adoption of the report, Alderman the Rev. J. F. A. Harvey desired that the county had, as a county, spent a single farthing on technical instruction. The money came from the Exchequer for that particular purpose, and it was rather ungrateful of Mr. Pretyman to complain of the expenditure. Mr. Pretyman said the Council could use the money for any purpose they chose to do. If they had only had a knife to cut with they would have ripped it up, and showed them what they do in America."—Pretyman was committed for trial.

SUCCESSFUL CLASSES FOR BUTTER-MAKING,

A FAMILY POISONED

BY EATING FUNGI.

A family of seven persons in Angers have been poisoned through eating fungi picked up on the roadside near the city. Four have died, and the three others are in a critical condition, and not expected to recover.

SLOWLY ROASTED ALIVE.

A TRAMP'S HORRIBLE DEATH.

The dead body of a man, shockingly burned, has been found on a refuse cinder heap adjoining some iron works near Bilston. It is supposed that he had lain down on the heap for warmth, and, being overcome with the fumes, was slowly burnt to death.

FOUR MURDERS AND SUICIDE.

DRIVEN MAD BY EMBARRASSMENTS.

A terrible tragedy is reported from Rathergles, a mining and agricultural township in Northern Victoria, Australia, which has resulted from financial troubles, cut the throats of his three children, shot a neighbour dead, and finally cut his own throat.

A PARISIAN ATROCITY.

SHOCKING STORY.

At the Assizes of the Seine, Jules Huitric was sentenced to penal servitude for life for the murder of a young girl who kept a grocer's shop in Paris. The crime was of a particularly atrocious character. After strangling his victim the murderer cut her throat, and with the utmost coolness admitted his crime, but denied that it was premeditated.

WAS IT SPITE?

A PENNILESS HUSBAND HAS TO GO TO THE WORKHOUSE.

PROCEEDINGS FOR BIGAMY.

At Newry a woman named Mrs. M'Mullen was remanded charged with bigamy. Her husband came home after an absence of three years, and found she had married a baker named Macaauff, by whom she had two children. M'Mullen alleges that he wrote twice to his wife and family, but that he came home penniless, and being refused admittance to his wife's house, was obliged to enter the workhouse.

GREAT STORM IN BELGIUM.

FARMHOUSES DESTROYED.

PHENOMENAL SHOWERS OF HAILSTONES.

A storm of extraordinary violence has passed over that portion of Belgium situated between Mons and the German frontier. The wind was almost of cyclone character, and swept across the country, destroying everything in its path along a well-defined track three miles in width. Torrents of rain were mixed with lightning and burned to the ground, whilst much damage was also done by the shower of enormous hailstones which accompanied the storm.

NOT SOBER FOR TWO YEARS.

A terrible drink story was told at an inquest on Charles James, a stoker, living at 35, New Windsor Road, yesterday. The testimony of a witness named Sperrin was that he was very seldom sober. He always got up drunk, and he would sometimes get up at three o'clock and wait for the public-houses to open. For four years he had been drinking hard, and for the last two years she did not think he was sober one day. Deceased died on Sunday at the age of 37. On Monday morning he was drunk. In the evening he was brought home, having had a fit, and when he got upstairs he fell. He was seen by a doctor, who said he was suffering from "drunken fits." The next day he was removed to the Infirmary. Dr. Gordon, medical superintendent, stated that deceased died of exhaustion and suffering from a compound dislocation of the ankle-joint, and a fracture of one of the small bones. He died on Sunday from delirium tremens following the injury. A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN A POLICE COURT.

OUTRAGE BY A PRISONER.

MAGISTRATES SHOT AT.

The Berlin newspapers announce that an outrage took place in the local law court at Essen, on the occasion of the delivery of sentence upon a miner named Lodz, who was charged with having defrauded the officials of the Imperial Assurance Department at a recent Social Democratic meeting. The prisoner being sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment he pulled out a revolver, and after firing at the Magistrates turned the weapon upon himself. Both shots missed their aim, however, and the prisoner was speedily disarmed and detained in custody. Meanwhile the Magistrates had fled from the court, the Public Prosecutor alone remaining in his place.

FOOD ANALYSES IN SUFFOLK.

"PEPPERING" AWAY MONEY.

A SENSIBLE SUGGESTION.

Reporting to the East Suffolk County Council on Tuesday under the provisions of the Food and Drugs Act, the public analyst, Mr. J. Napier, of Ipswich, stated that samples analysed during the past quarter gave an adulterated percentage of 16·2, while the average over England was 12·8. He drew attention to two samples of butter containing 10 and 12 per cent. respectively of added water. Sometimes these butters sent into this country to compete and undersell Englishmade butter, and he understood that proceedings were now in progress for the prosecution of the makers. Coffee should be paid to the analysing of milk, cheese, and butter, instead of so much to pepper.—Mr. Fiske and Alderman Riddell thought that the cost of the analysis should be directed to the cases of butter adulteration mentioned in the report; they failed to see the good of analysis if there was to be no prosecution, and the report receded against.—Eventually the last paragraph of the report was referred to the Standing Joint Committee.

FIGHT OVER A CORPSE.

A SOLICITOR BEQUEATHS MONEY TO A STRANGER.

HOUSE IN A STATE OF SIEGE.

During the last few days considerable excitement has been caused in the Holloway Road, and the intervention of the police had to be obtained on several occasions. It seems that on Friday a retired solicitor died at his house, 115, Holloway Road, from heart disease on the Midland Railway, and all sorts of rumours were circulated as to the cause of his death, but it was undoubtedly due to natural causes. The news reached soon the wife of the deceased arrived and obtained possession. She had formed that her husband had left his property to a woman with whom he had been living. The wife then went to her solicitor and returned with a police-sergeant and constable, and gained access to the premises, but was soon afterwards ejected by the woman and her friends. The clerk then went for assistance and returned with four navvy men, and they forced an entry to the house, only to be again ejected, the woman's party by this time having been reinforced. The deceased's brother got into the house, where he still remains, he and his party holding possession of the premises against all other parts the remainder. This being a private matter, the police are powerless to do anything beyond preventing a breach of the peace. The deceased was a bachelor, aged 70.

TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION IN SUFFOLK.

BUTTER AND CHEESEMAKING CLASSES A SUCCESS.

The East Suffolk County Council on Tuesday confirmed the joint scheme of their Sub-committee and a Sub-committee of the Ipswich Council, and a committee for providing instruction in agricultural chemistry and the principles of agriculture at Ipswich. It was also resolved to apply to the Technical Instruction to recommend the Council to make an order for the payment of £1,300 to the Secretary of the Committee, Mr. D. T. Cowan, to meet the deficiency for the year. The minutes up to November 30th.—Mr. Cowan's report stated that very conducted by the Eastern Counties' Dairy Institute, had been held at eleven places, where the greater part of the pupils were farmers' daughters. Cheese-making classes for Stilton and other cheeses, conducted by Miss M. E. Willard, had been held at Ipswich, Bramfield, Debenham, and Yoxford. The course of practical lectures delivered by Mr. P. Cowan, M.R.C.V.S., of Ipswich and Saxmundham had given satisfaction alike to the farmers and the Sub-committee. The average attendance, 35, warranted the Committee in engaging to have the lectures continued next winter. The shepherds' class completed its work with an examination held on the 30th July, at Bucklesham, and conducted by a Committee of Examiners, viz., Mr. J. O. Dawson, Nacton; Mr. Joseph Smith, Hasketon; and Mr. Hooper, Woodbridge. In the close of the course of lectures 15 of the shepher

MYSTERY OF THE MIDNIGHT CAB SOLVED.

By a Journal Commissioner.]

Not long ago we were seized with an unconquerable desire to be present at a lodge dinner. Now we confess that at the time the lodge was an institution had not been brought to our notice; it had not heard of the mysterious meetings, the blindfolding, the branding and the taking of the terrible oaths in darkened rooms at the back of obscure taverns, without feeling a keen amount of awe, and a curiosity with which we were ashamed to be found out to be shaken off. The source of our affliction was not to be shaken off. The source of our longing was an individual who resides opposite to us in a house with an imitation walnut door with a yellow glass knob, two brass plates and a knocker, and a picture of Paris boat of Lord Byron behind the fanlight, and at this moment a tremendous bustle going on behind the curtain which shades the window of the sitting-room. Overnight the individual in question, who is the same of Mr. He is a typical lodgeman, rejoicing in the name of Mr. Johnsophan Dibbs, and it was always knew that when there was anything stirring in the front sitting-room preparations were being made for a lodge night, for the apartment was rigorously closed except on those

RED-LETTER DAYS AND EVENINGS.

Had we been in the secret room ourself, instead of our own parlour, we must certainly should have known that the busy motion of Mrs Johnsophat James Dibbs's arms was the outcome of a laudable desire to annihilate every speck of dust which adhered to Mr. Johnsophat James Dibbs's cherished black swallow tail and unmentionables, and that the desperate rushing backwards and forwards of the juvenile Dibbses was rendered in the accumulation of a subconscious mass of lection of empty bottles, which on no account were permitted to be polluted by exposure but on lodge nights. Dibbs was a little, thin, fussy man, acknowledged by himself to be an orator, and by his friends to be a speaker, and he had a tremendous appetite. As he had often watched his departure in the venerable black suit on lodge nights, when Mrs. Dibbs and the little Dibbses would come to the door and gaze at his rapidly vanishing form, he had sometimes felt that his face had never lost an opportunity of impressing it upon them that he was the P.P.D.G.M. of Court ——— of the Ancient Order of Twiddlers. We had often, we repeat, watched his departure on these suspicious occasions with vague longings to accompany him, and time after time we had gone to bed at two and for his return. There was something about his return which struck us as peculiarly mysterious. Sometimes there would be a confused sound of shuffling of feet, then at the door, then more shuffling of feet, then a sound of persons retiring down the street laughing with a loudness that was not natural, and then Mr. Dibbs would come home by the third lamp. At other times the shuffling of feet was preceded by the noise from the wheels of a cab rushing impetuously up to the door, and we heard an oath that on one occasion we heard the gruff voice of one we well knew to be a teetotal policeman express the contempt of the law for cabmen who drive at speeds on the outskirts of the town, and not fit for no gentleman." It was not to be wondered at that the feelings of progeniture as these should awaken in us feelings of fondness longing to know what our friend had been engaged in doing. But he been a railway director, or an alderman, or even a bachelor, there would have been no mystification about the cab business; but being a quiet, inoffensive and a married man, we were at a loss to account for it. It was in this very unhappy state of uncertainty whose quite unexpectedly there came an opportunity of solving the mystery. Mrs. Dibbs, in a fit of economy, placed our hat under the chair, gave our coat a brush, and with a sigh prepared to wait until it did please the nymph in waiting to satisfy our demand, when she should walk in and sit down right opposite us.

"Yes," was all the reply we received. There must be some bad management here somewhere, we further observed. "Wretched," responded Mr. Dibbs. "Perhaps the manager is on his holidays, or burying his uncle," we facetiously suggested, with a view to drawing our neighbour into but—"Perhaps he is," was all the answer we received. A happy thought struck us. We tried a new tack. Allowing a full minute to elapse, we laughed, drew our chair to the table as if we were meditating an attack on the crust stand and water jug, and drawing in a deep breath, commenced to sing "Pretty Polly Perkins-on-Sea."

"All it is across every where, happily." Immediately Mr. Johnsophat James Dibbs pricked up his ears and looked at us as if he thought we were singing, and so we was not; then receiving no masonic sign from us, he said—"You may well say that, Sir; it is not so everywhere. It is not so at the 'Piebald Indian,' where the Ancient Order of Loyal Twiddlers meet to honour the great cause of Twiddling, and to promote friendship." Why, my dear Sir, on those elevating occasion—" Here Mr. Dibbs's eyes shone like brass buttons, and he became lost in the glowing excitement which manifested itself in his planting one

Mr. Dibbs looked very hard at us to see what we thought of it, but greatly worked upon by a story which he had told us of the gastronomic capabilities of the members of the Ancient Order of Loyal Twiddlers, we could do nothing but raise our eyebrows and look at him. "I'll tell you what I should like to hug the landlord of the "Piebald Indian," and mother Marvellous," "Marvellous!" I should think it was marvellous, Sir," returned Mr. Dibbs, with not a trace of his former reticence now left; "I should think it was marvellous, Sir. If the truth must be told, Sir, they don't know how it's done, but they chattered over it in the lodge in astounding evidence, it was clear they did not, we ordered two bottles of stout, and, under the influence of the conversation, we had three. The evening had been launched out into a lengthy history of the Ancient Order of Loyal Twiddlers and its methodical system of operations, which we had by heart in a week.

The invitation was accepted in three weeks time, and we found us at "Piebald Indian," under the patronising guidance of little Dibbs, who was attired fashionably in the black suit, and who was in possession of a white waistcoat and a white tie, which on no account were permitted to be polluted by exposure but on lodge nights. AGRICULTURE.

HARVEST OPERATIONS IN SUFFOLK.

CONDITION OF BARLEY.

AN UNSATISFACTORY OUTLOOK.

HONOUR FOR IPSWICH.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF POULTRY RAISING.

[By Our Special Correspondent.]

"What extraordinary harvest weather!" is an exclamation one hears on every side. As I write, however, there is not a cloud to be seen, the sun is shining with summer splendour and power, and let us hope that it may prove the beginning of a better state of things. The hope has been cheered in a similar way several times this season, but the bright days have only proved to be "weather breeders," and heavy showers have succeeded to add to the anxiety of the farmers, and to prolong harvest operations. The expense and worry incidental to the present uncertain condition of the elements is probably only adequately appreciated by those who have to undergo the trying ordeal. To take all that "go" out of harvest, though in reality more of it is required, but when you have to spend a good deal of your time in setting up sheaves and in turning over the grass the work becomes very discouraging, and the constant delay is bad all round. Last year the harvest was out of the way in quick stick and the land was got into trim for the succeeding crops, and some young farmers in heavy land districts, for the want of a better job, had to vary the monotony of life in the country, were glad to turn their attention occasionally to rabbiting—where any were to be found—or some of the other methods of employment open to dwellers in rural districts. During the course of a little rambling excursion this week, that some of the fields have been cleared, proving that the rains have been partial, where I made a brief stay there had not, however, been the slightest chance of getting up the corn which had been standing so invitingly for several days in readiness to be carted, and some of it had begun to sprout. In our own county of Suffolk a very considerable, in the case of some, regard, must be, particularly, to the fate has to be told when last week proved most disastrous harvest. The weather last week proved most disastrous to the uncarted barleys. How serious has been the mischief caused was evidenced by the samples brought on the Ipswich Market on Tuesday, which were in a few instances as low as 20s., but from 28s. to 30s. per quarter, but the crop throughout the district has become sadly deteriorated, and, sad to relate, very little of it will be fit for malting. This is the depressing effect of the rainfall during the past month. The fact to be the worst during the present month. The Agricultural Correspondent of the Standard, whose remarks apply generally, says:—"It remains to be seen whether comparative immunity from further such a soaking as the sheaves will be continued, and whether, for ordination is to be the case, the crop throughout the district has become sadly deteriorated, and, sad to relate, very little of it will be fit for malting. ENORMOUS DECREASE OF MEMBERSHIP.

IN THE LOCALITY IN ESSEX

MR. BLAKE A PROPERTY OWNER.

So Mr. E. Blake, treasurer and trustee of the Eastern Counties' Labour Federation, has had another tilt at me, in which he tries to deal with matters of which he knows nothing about. I should certainly advise him in the future to keep to the shallow, muddy waters of his own Federation, and not launch into the clear, deep waters of the Independent Federations that are being run to-day by the working men themselves, who are keeping their hands in their own pockets with no object of keeping up the salaries of the leading agitators and wastrels—men who are going up and down the country to-day amongst the working classes with the cry upon their tongues, "Your money or your life," and urging them at their altar which they have erected to Baal to liberty, and manhood, and bosome serfs at the beck and call of a class of men who prey upon the working man. Well, now coming to Mr. E. Blake's tirade of abuse and insult, and his impudent and insolent questions, and his base, groundless and senseless charges against the Ipswich Mutual Working Men's Independent Federation, let me say that—That in thousands of cases my mission has been a complete success in delivering the working man from the thraldom of tyrannical Trades Unions. 2cd. Mr. Blake asks whether it is not a fact that since my Federation has been started 300 have been reduced from 4d. to 3d. per hour. In reply, I beg to state that such is not the fact, and consequently no protest has been needed from me in this respect. 3rd. Before Mr. Blake asks about numbers leaving Unions or Federations, it would be well for him to look at home, whereas instead of, as in 1892, his members numbered (so they said) 17,000, in 1893 only about 5,000 could have been paying members, making a falling off in one year of 12,000 members in about 18 months. 4th. As to Mr. Blake's question as to when our Federation stopped its former unjust employers and the employés, I beg to say that as far as we have gone we have had no necessity to do so. No injustice by employers of our members has ever yet been the subject of complaint, and as far as we know the

SACRIFICE THEIR FREEDOM,

MEMBERS' WAGES

EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYED HAVE GOT ON VERY WELL TOGETHER, the rights of each having been acknowledged and respected by the other. 5th. With regard to his charge that since I have been busy with my Federation, wages have gone down in all directions, I should again advise Mr. Blake to look at home. In the report of his Federation for 1892 he said the average wages of the labourer was 12s. per week, which, notwithstanding all the agitation carried on by Blake and Co. and the thousands of pounds extracted from hard, earned wages of the labourer, I am glad to say Mr. Blake is say whether wages have not fallen 2s. per week on the average, thus showing the uselessness of his Federation to keep up wages or to benefit its members, except the few overfed, sleek and well-paid officials, who have had a very good place, and are, of course, anxious to keep it. I think that they must begin to see that the labourers are not donkeys. 5th. With regard to his attack upon our balance-sheet, there is one thing about it, that all the subscriptions paid by our members were duly accounted for in the cases, and the members had the full benefit of all the money they had paid. Now, Mr. Blake, I challenge you to say that the same can be said of the thousands of pounds collected from the labourers last year and spent on certain officialism which

NEVER FOUND ITS WAY INTO YOUR BALANCE-SHEET

at all, and has never been accounted for to the members who had to find the cash, in the balance-sheet which you filed with the Registrar-General. Let me ask you why this concealment and keeping back of the full and real official expenditure of Mr. Blakes's Federation? I now further ask Mr. Blake if it is not true that in addition to the official expenditure as shown in his balance-sheet, there was not a further expenditure of 10d. per member per year for officialism, which, upon Mr. Blake's return of 11,342 members, amounts to no less a sum than £472 11s. 8d., not one single shilling of which has ever found its way into the balance-sheet of 1893 at all, and, so far as this balance-sheet is concerned, is totally unaccounted for? Will Mr. Blake dare further to deny the fact that a further sum of £1 per year per branch had been paid for rent of club-rooms, for which amount also has been omitted from the balance-sheets?

WILL MR. BLAKE FURTHER EXPLAIN

why this state of things exists in the face of rules 16 and 30 of his Federation, which, I say, have been most flagrantly violated? 6th. If the above allegations are true, and, from evidence I have in my possession dealing with past balance-sheets I say they are, will Mr. Goode Hicks, the auditor, explain how it is that he signed the balance-sheet, declaring it to be correct,

IN VIOLATION OF RULE 33, which reads as follows:—"The duties of the auditors shall be to audit quarterly the accounts of the income and expenditure of the Federation, and at the general office, and see whether they have been properly kept, and whether the contributions from the branches have been entered in the ledger and correctly added, and transferred, with any other items in the cash book. They shall examine generally the expenditure, require the production of all cheques for every item of expenditure. . . . They shall also examine the reports as drawn up by the Secretary, and if satisfied with their correctness, sign the same." I ask the auditor that in signing the balance-sheet as issued, and which balance-sheet does not give a detailed account of the total income and expenditure of the Federation, as required by rule, but only a detailed income, if he is correct in that balance-sheet, and whether in signing the same he did not violate Rule 33 as to his duties as an auditor? I will further ask Mr. Blake whether, in the face of his balance-sheet, there were not something like

11,000 MEMBERS WHO LEFT his Federation last year instead of 5,158, which is the number given in his return. My advice to the agricultural labourer is to give the go-bye to a Federation like this description, and refuse to be humbugged in the future by such men as Blake, Sutton, Brown and Co. When Mr. Blake writes about dockers starving, I should advise him to turn his memory back to the starving victims of the Federation at Mendlesham, and hide his head for very shame. As to Mr. Blake's statement that the public will begin to suspect there was something in his letter, allow me to say they do already suspect there is something in it, and that that something is nothing but bunkum, humbug and tommy rot. As to his reference to my whining, I think those who know me and Mr. Blake from past experience know that I am not much of a whiner—a fighter if you like, and one who has and still does mean war to the knife. I notice in the Press that the Eastern Counties Labour Federation is to be represented at the Trades Congress to be held at Norwich next month. I wonder if the labourer knows what this means out of the funds. Well, it means this, that every society sending a representative has to pay 10s. delegate's fee, and 20s. for every thousand members, so the expense upon Mr. Blake's return would be £12 10s. for fees, besides, I presume, travelling and other expenses of the delegate;

A MUCH USELESS EXPENSE

to be thrown upon the labourers for some delegate to air himself and his notions, I must say. I further note that Mr. E. Blake has now blossomed into a property owner, and has made an ownership claim in respect of a house of which he was become the repairer over. Good business this; he must be doing well. He must have had a grand time of it! Who would not be a Labourers' Federation man, boy, whore most of the members' contributions find their way into the pockets of the officials?

DROWNING IN THE OUZE.

SAD BOATING ACCIDENT NEAR LYNN.

On Thursday Frcik. Wiskley, organist, of East-borne, was boating on the Ouze with his wife, father, and brother, when the boat foaled the St. German's Bridge, five miles from Lynn, and capsized. All the occupants were thrown into the water, and Frcik. Wiskley was drowned.

EXCITING SCENE AT FELIXSTOWE.

A LADY BATHER'S PERILOUS POSITION.

Some excitement was caused or Felixstowe beach on Thursday morning, when a young woman who was bath-ing on an ebbing tide got out of her depth, and was about to sink for the second time. Instantly a visitor, Mr. A. Kennedy, of Brondesbury, London, ran to the water's edge, divesting himself of his coat and waist-coat on the way, and swam to the girl's rescue. Dr. Wright, of Newmarket, who was on the beach, also assisted in bringing the girl to shore, where after some little time she recovered.

TERRIBLE DEATH AT BECCLES.

AN OLD MAN CUT TO PIECES.

On Thursday morning a man named James Chilvers, about 60 years of age, was knocked down by an engine, which was on its way to the goods siding at Beccles Station. Chilvers was employed by the Gas Company as a blacksmith, was crossing the metals when the accident happened. One of his legs was cut off below the knee, and a portion of the heel of the other foot was also injured. He was at once removed into Beccles Hospital, where he only survived three hours, death resulting from shock to the system. His leg was broken off at the thigh, as well as severed below the knee, and the other heel severely crushed.

THE NEW POSTAGE SCHEME.

A DESIRABLE INNOVATION.

We have authority to state that the public have the privilege of sending, through the Inland post, as post-cards, private cards bearing halfpenny adhesive stamps. The regulations provide that the cards must be composed of stamped paper, and that the size of the material used for the official postcard. The maximum size, having regard to the variety of form, must correspond as nearly as may be to the size of the ordinary Inland postcard now in use. The minimum size must not be less than 4½ inches long by 3 inches wide. Nothing must not be added. With regard to the address side, the rules differ very little from the rules which relate to the present post-card. The prohibition against the use of the new Warrant give rather more latitude than is permitted by the Warrant which it supersedes. On the address side, not more than 12 words may be used. Any sender may add the words "Immediate," "Forward," "Local," and also may attach by gum or paste a small label as at present. Nothing else may be attached on the address side, except a postage stamp, and on the reverse side nothing but a receipt stamp. The arrangements, of course, apply also to reply postcards.

EAST SUFFOLK HOSPITAL.

WHAT IPSWICH FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ARE DOING.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY ARRANGEMENTS.

The Committee of the movement for establishing an annual "Ipswich Friendly Societies' Hospital Sunday" held its second sitting on Friday, when several other Societies sent deputies by invitation to co-operate in what promises to be a successful effort by the Friendly Societies to raise funds of this most valuable and necessary Institution. Amongst the Societies taking part in this movement besides those already mentioned are the Order of Pioneers, "Sons of Temperance," "Shepherds," "Eastern Star," "Alliance," "Rechabites," and "Royal Oak." Chairman Barrington has kindly granted the use of the Tower Church for a special afternoon service, and it was decided to hold the demonstration on Sunday, the 23rd instant. Unless any unforseen circumstance arises either at the Portman Road Recreation Ground, or (if wet) at the Drill Hall. It is intended that everything in connection with the proceedings shall be entirely voluntary, including bands of music. Responsible collectors will be appointed, who will be supplied with subscription lists, and the proper course of procedure with such boxes to be handed in at the Town Hall after the procession has left the church.

THE MEMBERS WILL ASSEMBLE AS HERETOFORE

THREE HORRIBLE FINDS.

PARCELS CONTAINING DEAD INFANTS.

ONE COMPLETELY MUMMIFIED.

SHOCKING DISCLOSURES.

Last Monday week a parcel was found in a cart in Dorset Mews. Mr. Charles Pryce, a chimney sweep, thought it contained the body of a cat, and threw it into the gutter. Next morning a dog was seen sniffing at it, and the contents were then found to be the remains of a child. At Dr. Thomas's inquest on Tuesday, Mitchell, 1272 D, said the remains were wrapped up in an old piece of black and red serged skirt. They were dried up and completely mummified; in fact, the sex could not be determined. Last week a man and a woman were charged at Clerkenwell with having concealed and deposited the body of a newly-born male child in a box at the Paddington Railway Station. Mr. Arthur Gregg, the prosecuting solicitor, said that the box was addressed to Mrs. Hicks, 3, Dorset Mews, Edgware Road, and was found to contain the body of a male child. The woman Hicks, who was in custody, said that the box was sent to her by a woman named Mrs. Hall, who lived at Hounslow, and who had promised to take the child away and bury it. Mr. Gregg said that Mrs. Hall had been arrested, and had made a statement to the effect that she had received the child from the prisoner Hicks, and had taken it to Hounslow, where she had buried it in a field. Mr. Gregg said that Mrs. Hall had been in the habit of receiving children from unmarried women, and that she had received £5 for taking away the child in question. Mr. Gregg added that Mrs. Hall had been arrested at Hounslow, and that the police were now engaged in searching the field where she had buried the child. Mr. Bros, the magistrate, remanded the prisoner Hicks for a week, and refused to accept bail for her appearance.

CLACTON TALE OF THE SEA.

ATTEMPED SUICIDE IN AN OPEN BOAT.

PRISONER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Before the Tendring Hundred Bench on Monday, Arthur Greig was charged on remand with attempting to commit suicide in an open boat, at Clacton.—Prisoner's brother now appeared, and said prisoner's friends were willing to keep him and try to find him employment.—The Medical Officer of Ipswich Gaol sent a written certificate to the effect that he could not find any trace of insanity in the prisoner's conduct while in prison.—The Chairman said that under these circumstances the Bench had no alternative but to send the prisoner for trial.

TRAMPS AND THE TICKET SYSTEM.

ONE RESULT OF THE IPSWICH CONFERENCE.

CASUALS ON THE DECREASE.

Thirty-four Boards of Guardians in Suffolk, Essex, and Norfolk have adopted the ticket system of dealing with tramps, as recommended at a recent Poor-law conference at Ipswich. The system has already resulted in a great decrease in the number of casuals seeking shelter at the workhouses. At the monthly meeting of the Wickham Market Guardians, it was reported that the number relieved during the month was 20, being nearly 50 less than in the corresponding period of last year.

PARTRIDGE SHOOTING IN EAST ANGLIA.

FAIR PROSPECTS.

Partridge shooting will commence in East Anglia (to-day) Saturday under fairly favourable conditions, notwithstanding that many of the young birds were killed by the heavy rains in June. The Compton as a blackmith, was crossing the metals when the accident happened. One of his legs was cut off below the knee, and a portion of the heel of the other foot was also injured. He was at once removed into Beccles Hospital, where he only survived three hours, death resulting from shock to the system. His leg was broken off at the thigh, as well as severed below the knee, and the other heel severely crushed.

THE NEW POSTAGE SCHEME.

A DESIRABLE INNOVATION.

We have authority to state that the public have the privilege of sending, through the Inland post, as post-cards, private cards bearing halfpenny adhesive stamps. The regulations provide that the cards must be composed of stamped paper, and that the size of the material used for the official postcard. The maximum size, having regard to the variety of form, must correspond as nearly as may be to the size of the ordinary Inland postcard now in use. The minimum size must not be less than 4½ inches long by 3 inches wide. Nothing must not be added. With regard to the address side, the rules differ very little from the rules which relate to the present post-card. The prohibition against the use of the new Warrant give rather more latitude than is permitted by the Warrant which it supersedes. On the address side, not more than 12 words may be used. Any sender may add the words "Immediate," "Forward," "Local," and also may attach by gum or paste a small label as at present. Nothing else may be attached on the address side, except a postage stamp, and on the reverse side nothing but a receipt stamp. The arrangements, of course, apply also to reply postcards.

REPRESENTATION OF COLCHESTER.

REASON OF CAPTAIN NAYLOR-LEYLAND'S RETIREMENT.

Captain Naylor-Leyland's retirement from the representation of Colchester is due to the fact that private responsibilities recently incurred have presented an effectual bar to his continued residence in the borough. Business matters will necessitate his prolonged absence from England in the late autumn this year, and possibly during the greater part of next year. Under these circumstances he feels it to himself to be a resident member, and he has felt it essential, in the interests of the party, that being so, no longer as to hold the pledge, he should not resume the position of candidate at a time of critical importance, and accordingly he has tendered his resignation subject to the willingness of the party to adopt him in case of sudden emergency, when he would be willing to stand until his successor is selected.

PIRATE BUS CONDUCTOR'S FIGHT.

AMUSING CASE IN LONDON.

A singular assault case was investigated at West minster, on Tuesday, a conductor named Henry James Matthews, in the service of the London General Omnibus Company, being summoned for striking and kicking William Richard Piper, another conductor. At midday on Monday, 20th August, the London General Omnibus Company's bus and the vehicle of which complainant was conductor pulled up on westward journeys outside the St. George's Hospital. Five or six which bus they should take, were approached by the rival conductors, who shouted each other, and also those who had not yet made the prospective passengers that they would get their pockets picked in Piper's bus, and Piper complained that defendant had struck one of his mates a pirate.—Mr. Snell remarked that as regarded abuse the honours were easy, but on the evidence that the London conductor was knocked down and kicked down—the suggestion for the defence was that he lost his balance and fell—he imposed a fine on Matthews of 40s. and costs, or 14 days' hard labour. The fine was paid.

OTHER OMNIBUSES, RESTING

A FINE POINT IN LICENSING LAW.

AN IXWORTH LICENSEE NOMINALLY FINED.

Abraham Banham, beerhouse-keeper, of Ixworth Thorpe, appeared before the Ixworth Justices on Monday, charged with permitting beer to be consumed on outdoor licensed premises.—Police-constable Folger, on Monday, 30th July, heard singing, and found it was at the back of defendant's house. When opposite the cellar door, defendant came out with a can of beer. At the back of a shed there were 31 men. One man was standing on a block of wood singing; another poured out a glass of beer and asked witness to drink. Cross-examined, the witness said the beer was being poured out and handed to three men, who stood near, and they were on the premises of Cox. Shaw, or that part which is at the back of the house.—Defendant was examined, and said the men were on Shaw's ground; none were on his. He gave the beer when he considered he was entitled to it. They had not been doing wrong.—The Bench were satisfied that the case was proved, and imposed a fine of 6l. and costs 11s. 6d.

HARVEST PROSPECTS IN SUFFOLK.

A GLOOMY FORECAST.

A Woodbridge correspondent writes respecting the harvest:—"The situation is anything but encouraging. A few samples of wheat of the new crop have been offered in the local markets, whether condition nor price very satisfactory. A fair quantity of barley has been harvested in dry parts, and a little wheat, but it is too early to give quotations or the probable yield. To this crop, where heavy, damage is done from being laid by excessive rains and dampness at times. We fear the bright forecast in which we indulged a few weeks since is

DOOMED TO DISAPPOINTMENT.

Roots are making fair promise; sunshine would now be beneficial to them."—From the Hadleigh district the prospects are very gloomy and very little corn has been carted. Wheat a fair crop. Barley on good land, well-farmed, very good crop. Land very good-colour and quality much injured by wet. Beans and oats good. Peas very bad. Potatoes much diseased. Root crops very much out of hand. Weeds more flourishing. Rain every day. Reef and mutton selling well. Pork a bad trade. Store stock fetching good prices. Suffolk rams in demand. Feed plentiful."

BURY COLT AND FOAL SHOW.

OBJECT OF THE EXHIBITION.

The entries for this exhibition, which is advertised to take place on September 19th, close on Wednesday, September 5th. The exhibition is being promoted by a committee of gentlemen, whose object is to establish an annual market at Bury at that season of the year when it is customary to wean off the foals. The promoters of the venture consider the holding of such an exhibition and sale would, to the majority of farmers, be accepted as a good and handy means of either disposing of their surplus stock or of purchasing young horses for their farms. Although the exhibition is to be classed a foal show, it has been deemed advisable, says the Bury Post, by those answerable for the arrangements, to offer prizes for thoroughbred and weaned colts and fillies. By this means it is hoped to make the sale additionally attractive, and give an impetus to the breeding of horses in the district generally. The Secretary, Mr. E. Walter Greene, M.S.H., is a liberal supporter of the prize list, the Master's object being to encourage the breeding of horses, and more especially hunters, amongst those agriculturists over whose lands he hunts, and this virtually embraces the whole of Suffolk. The object of the promoters is worthy of very substantial support, and we learn that amongst the subscribers to the prize fund are Earl Cadogan, K.G., Lord Iveagh, Sir Robt. Affleck, the Hon. F. W. D. Smith, M.P., the Hon. A. E. Parker, Mr. E. G. Barclay, Mr. Paley (Ampton), Mr. George Hervey, Mr. R. Edgar, Mr. W. Harvey, and many of the leading agriculturists of the district.

CRUEL CONDUCT OF A LAUNDRYMAID.

REMARKABLE SERIES OF ROBBERIES.

Ann Betts, 18, a laundrymaid, employed at the Licensed Victuallers' School, Upper Kennington Lane, was charged at the Lambeth Police Court, on Tuesday, with stealing gold brooches and rings, of the value of £400, the property of Martin Butler, the matron, and a gold brooch, the property of Edith Hooper, an assistant mistress. The matron stated that the prisoner had been employed at the school for about six months. When she missed the jewellery she informed the police, and the articles were recovered from pawnbrokers with whom the prisoner had pledged them.—Detective-sergeant Gardiner said he had ascertained from the prisoner's mother that she was a very bad girl. When between 13 and 14 years of age she was sent to an industrial school.—Inspector Nutkins remarked that there had been a series of robberies at the institution. In this case some of the property was put back in the room by a fellow-servant, and the brooches were pawned in the name of a fellow-servant. Several girls had to leave their situations through being suspected.—Mr. Biron observed that the prisoner had apparently been guilty of a series of robberies.—Prisoner: No, sir, only that one.—Mr. Biron sentenced her to three months' hard labour, and characterised her attempt to throw the blame upon her fellow-servants as most wicked.

A FRAMLINGHAM CHILD NEARLY DROWNED.

A GALLANT RESCUE.

On Wednesday, a child named Shrubb, about two years old, was playing with her sister and other companions in Mr. Henry Fairweather's garden, in Albert Place, Framlingham, when she wandered from her companions and got on to a ledge bordering the river, close to where there is a deep hole, and by some means toppled over into the water. Mr. Channing F. Downing was passing at the time, and, hearing the splash, ran to the scene and quickly rescued the child from its perilous position.

REMARKABLE DEADLOCK AT BURY.

PUBLIC BUSINESS BLOCKED.

AN ANCIENT CONSTITUTION.

On Thursday there was an annual meeting of Borough Guardians in the Guildhall, where the proceedings were delayed for nearly an hour, owing to a sufficient number not being present to constitute "the Court" for transacting business.—The Vice-Chairman (Mr. R. Eldred) produced the ticket system of dealing at an hour late.—Mr. F. H. W. Dight was re-elected governor; Mr. E. Kidson, deputy governor; and Mr. Bickford Smith, chairman.—Mr. Dight, in thanking the Board for having re-elected him Governor, remarked that it was 17 years since the first Governor of the Bury St. Edmund's Incorporation was chosen, the old Act bearing date 1747.

TWO GIRLS CONDUCT AN INN.

OPPOSITION AT HALESWORTH.

At the Halesworth Brewster Sessions on Thursday, Superintendent Andrews presented his annual report as to the amount of crime in the Blything Division during the past year. There had been a decrease of 26 on the previous year. Two years ago, the Superintendent objected to the renewal of the licence of the Compasses Inn, Westhall, on the ground that it was not required, and because, owing to the situation of the house, the police had a difficulty in exercising a proper supervision over it. He found that since Michaelmas last this house had been under the sole control of two girls, the elder of whom was 17 years of age and the younger 14 years.—The licence were renewed with the exception of that of the Greyhound Inn, Westhall, the case adjourned for a fortnight.—Mr. Alfred Smith, owner and occupier of the Crown beerhouse, at Thorpe, applied for a full license.—This was opposed on behalf of Mr. Benjamin Harling, a landowner, and Mrs. Ogilvie, also an owner of land.—The application was refused.

IPSWICH FEDERATIONISTS AT DINNER.

A CONVIVIAL GATHERING AT STOKE.

The members of the Stoke Branch of the Ipswich Mutual Working Men's Independent Federation spent a most enjoyable evening, at the Engineers' Arms, Stoke, on Tuesday, on the occasion of their annual dinner. The chair was taken by Mr. A. C. Cattermole. Mr. D. Cook occupying the vice, and being supported by Mr. A. L. Edwards, the founder of the Federation, and Messrs. Chandler and Wade, the Stoke Branch auditors. Mr. Edwards, in short but appropriate terms, proposed the toast of the evening, as also did the toast of "The Health of the Chairman, Vice-chairman, and the host (Mr. Walter Sutcliffe)," to which the latter gentleman responded in suitable terms. The President of the Federation" was proposed by Mr. D. Cook, which was suitably acknowledged. Other toasts followed during which reference was made to the continued prosperity of the branch, it being announced that new members were being made weekly. The evening was altogether spent during the evening by various members of the branch.

A COLCHESTER CYCLIST'S ADVENTURES.

"BORROWS" A BICYCLE AND IS ARRESTED.

On Thursday, at Ipswich Police Court, Harry E. Nice, upholsterer, Colchester, was charged with the theft of a bicycle belonging to Frederick Ernest Hubert, of Cemetery Road. The defendant hired a safety bicycle from Hubert on Saturday, the 25th July, promising to return it in two days. On Monday the prosecutor received a letter from Nice, informing him of his machine, journeyed to Dedham. Prisoner was not there, and on his return prosecutor received another letter from the defendant, saying he had gone to Ipswich for expenses for failing to return the machine. Later Nice was at the machine in Mr. Bickmore's yard, cycle agent, 13, Butter Market, Bury St. Edmund's, for £3 10s.—The Magistrates committed the defendant for trial at the Quarter Sessions, bail being allowed.

A DEFINITION OF GAMBLING.

LICENSE HOLDERS BEWARE.

Lowestoft Licensing Sessions were held on Thursday, when the annual report of Supt. Shipp was presented, showing an increased number of convictions for drunkenness. Generally the houses were fairly well conducted. There were, however, a few cases of illegal card-playing, bagatelle, and other games on their premises. These were not unlawful under certain conditions, but when played for money or beer they became unlawful games, and he (Supt. Shipp) hoped that licensed persons would discountenance and discontinue games in their houses. Several applications, as well as renewals of existing licenses were deferred.—Mr. H. Chamberlin Ingold, on behalf of Mr. Charles Joseph Punchard, of the Anchor Stores, Commercial Road, for a spirit license. The property was in the centre of the business part of Lowestoft, and a new dock had just been constructed in the immediate vicinity. Mr. Chamberlin produced a memorial containing 70 signatures, many of them of well-known townsmen, urging the necessity of acceding to the application, and the Magistrates granted the license.

ALARMING OCCURRENCE AT BUNGAY.

NARROW ESCAPE OF MR. RIDER HAGGARD.

RECKLESS CONDUCT OF A HAWKER.

Mr. Rider Haggard, the novelist, who has become an enthusiastic votary of the wheel, and who has to use his own expression found it "a delightful exercise" has just had cause to modify that opinion, after riding down Bridge Street, Bungay, near his Norfolk home, in company with a number of friends on his cycles, the whole party nearly came to destruction through the obstinacy of the driver of a cart. The street is narrow, and just as the head of the party the man dashed into them at a furious rate. Mr. Rider Haggard, in order to avoid the collision, turned his machine against the wall, and was rather badly bruised in addition to receiving a severe shock. Another member of the party was jammed between the wheel of the cart and the pavement, while other of the cyclists were also injured. The cause of all this mischief was a travelling hawker of Norwich named John Underwood, who, at the Bungay Petty Sessions on Thursday, was fined 38s. 8d. inclusive of costs, the Chairman intimating that the great danger to life of the defendant's reckless conduct.

PROPOSED PURCHASE OF CHRISTCHURCH PARK.

PROTEST BY ALD. JOSSELYN.

DO THE PUBLIC WANT IT?

SUGGESTED NOVEL TEST.

At the next meeting of the Town Council we shall presumably be asked to arrive at a final decision of the question, whether or no we will then irrevocably bind the ratepayers of Ipswich to spend as much as £16,000 in purchasing, at the high rate of £320 per acre, about fifty acres of the interior of Christchurch Park, besides compulsorily taking on a necessary but unimagined capital expenditure thereon, the probable amount of which has not yet been ascertained. Before we finally decide that important question, I think we may reasonably take into consideration, and also invite the public to express their opinions upon, some few points bearing upon it. For instance, 1. Is on the part of the ratepayers to have the purchase made at all? and what is the probability that the Park would, if purchased by the town, be very generally resorted to by the public as a place of recreation? Is the property now worth in open market anything near the sum the town is now asked to give for it? 3. What reasons are there for and against the purchase? And is there any, and if any, what urgent necessity in the interests of the town to make the purchase just at the present time, when rates are heavy and increasing? It is possibly not generally known or fully appreciated that the Act of Parliament, under which alone the town has power to purchase the Park, absolutely precludes the town authorities from letting it for any purpose whatever on public walking. From this it follows that, if the suggested purchase be carried out, our Friendly Societies and public institutions who have hitherto, by means of the Park, been able to realise from time to time considerable sums of money for provident and charitable objects by fixing it for fêtes on public holidays, will be for ever thereafter

ANYTHING LIKE A GENERAL DESIRE

ABSOLUTELY DEPRIVED OF THEIR OPPORTUNITIES

of applying it to that useful and deserving purpose. On the other hand the probability of the interior of the Park being built upon for many years to come—if ever—is obviously at present a very remote contingency, and, so long as untouched, it will, in any other owner's hands than those of the town authorities, undoubtedly remain for years to come available for holding on public holidays those fêtes for which it is by nature so admirably adapted. The question whether or no the public would extensively use the Park (if acquired) as a place for ordinary recreation

CAN BE SATISFACTORILY TESTED

by in the first instance hiring instead of purchasing outright; the hire might be for a limited term with option of purchase at the end of that term, and it would certainly seem to be prudent that the town should give a considerable rent for a time in order to try an experiment, rather than embark at once in a very large capital expenditure which, if the experiment should fail, would have been practically thrown away unnecessarily.

JOHN H. JOSSELYN.

Ipswich, 31st August, 1894.

THE NEW RECTOR OF WHITTON.

Rev. H. Anson, curate of St. Pancras, London, has been appointed rector of Whittton, Ipswich.

ALLOTMENTS AT WICKHAM MARKET.

SUCCESSFUL CULTIVATORS.

At a meeting of the Committee of Wickham Market Cottagers' Show on Thursday evening, the judges of allotments gave in their decision as follows:—Mr. Whitmore's prizes; 1st, C. Freeman; 2nd, D. Hampson; 3rd, Gravestock; 4th, C. Gooch. Mr. Kent's prizes: 1st, Geo. Self; 2nd, H. Walker; 3rd, Jas. Leech.

2,000 PEOPLE MISSING

ON HARWICH AND CLACTON EXCURSION STEAMERS.

Much alarm was caused on Thursday night in Ipswich by the non-arrival of the steamers Koh-i-noor and Clacton Belle, which had on board two thousand passengers from Ipswich, Yarmouth, Harwich, Clacton, and Southend, and hundreds of persons remained about the piers until Friday morning, when they were informed that the steamers anchored for safety at 11 p.m., having been detained all night in the lower reaches of the Thames by a dense fog.

AN ESSEX SENSATION.

SHOT BY A BROTHER.

A DISTRESSING STORY.

At Ilford, Essex, yesterday (Friday), an inquest was held on the body of Ethel Sharp, aged 16, the daughter of a barrister. On Thursday one of her elder brothers returned from shooting, and left his loaded gun in the kitchen. Another brother, aged 11, picked up the weapon, and pointing it to his sister, fired. The girl was shot in the neck, and died shortly afterwards. The jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death." It was returned, the Jury condemning the dangerous practice of leaving loaded guns about.

DESTRUCTIVE FARM FIRES NEAR BURY.

TERRIBLE WORK OF AN INCENDIARY.

On Wednesday night a fire occurred on the farm of Mr. John Symonds, of Whepstead. One wheat stack and part of another, containing about nine acres, were destroyed, as well as a stack of peas, the produce of nearly three acres. Early on Thursday morning a stack of barley, the produce of upwards of nine acres, also belonging to Mr. J. Symonds, was destroyed by fire. There was no insurance on the latter, and it was considered useless to requisition the services of the Bury St. Edmund's Volunteer Fire Brigade.

THE LATE MR. NOTLEY OF MENDHAM.

The mortal remains of Mr. Wm. Notley, late relieving officer of the Stradbroke district (to whom reference is made elsewhere), were laid to rest in the beautiful churchyard of Mendham on Saturday, fully befitting a man of respect. The mourners were:—Mrs. W. Notley (widow), Mrs. and Miss J. Notley, Mr. G. Notley, Mr. F. Notley, Mr. Archer Notley, Miss A. Notley, and Miss E. Notley, Miss Ethel Notley, Miss Emily Notley (grandchildren), Mr. and Mrs. Cooper (son-in-law and bold (brother and sister), Mr. J. Cracknell, Mr. G. Cracknell, Mr. R. Cracknell, Mr. T. Cracknell, Mr. C. Cracknell, Mr. W. Cracknell, Mr. Frostenfield, Mr. E. Cracknell (brothers and sister-in-law), Mr. T. C. Read, Miss E. Cobbold, and Dr. Candler. A large number of friends and neighbours of the deceased gate to pay a last tribute of respect to their departed friend. Mr. Chaston, chairman, and Mr. Norton Garrard, clerk, to the Board of Guardians, were among the number. The Rev. H. S. Oriel (vicar) and Canon Raven, D.D., Frostenfield (rector), and Witherdale), officiated. In addition to those sent by deceased's near relatives, floral tributes were sent by Mr. and Mrs. Cracknell, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Cobbold, Mrs. E. Cracknell, Mrs. Jackman, Mrs. Lord, the Misses Lord, Ted Lord, Dr. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Diggens, Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson, Mrs. Haywood Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. Bedwell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Read, and Mrs. Gedny, Miss Dosison, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, Rev. and Mrs. Oriel, and Mr. Jacobson and Family.

CHURCH NOTES.

THE LOCAL TENENS DIFFICULTY SOLVED.

We have received a communication from the Rev. Sidney Pelham, the Palace, Norwich, regarding the St. Andrew's Hall difficulty, which has of late been promoted with the object of organising a staff of specially qualified mission clergy, who, as occasion requires, will be able to undertake or supplement the work of the parochial clergy. This is a widely-felt need, which in already being met in several dioceses by some similar agency. The mission clergy will be ready:—(a) To undertake the charge of parishes, during the incumbent's illness of the incumbent's death. (b) To conduct missions, whether parochial or itinerary, and short "three days' mission" revivals. (c) To hold "quiet (i.e. devotional) days," and "retreats" extending over a longer period. (d) To provide courses of lectures during Church seasons, or as occasion may seem desired. Ultimately, as the Society is enlarged, further branches of work would be taken in hand. But the immediate object is to meet the felt necessity of deepening of spiritual life in the Diocese, and the supply of pressing needs. To this end the Bishop has appointed a Diocesan Missioner, with whom will be associated, as soon as the funds admit of it. It would be very desirable to secure a house in Ipswich, and if possible another in Ipswich, as the head-quarters of the Diocesan Missioners, where they could live together, both for mutual society and to keep aloof from over-parochial life. The Voluntary Diocesan Missioners give their services in the same cause, but having parochial cures of their own, will not be able to do so without themselves for for short periods at a time. Missioners are not vacant through death or resignation, or in the event of the incumbent being ordered away for his health or being otherwise incapacitated, the parochial duties are often required for providing for the charge of the parish. St. Andrew's Society will supply a pressing need; but it points to a large staff of workers, and it is to be hoped that the requirements of this immense diocese with nearly 1,000 benefices. Communications relating to the work of the Society should in the first instance be addressed to Rev. Sidney Pelham, The Palace, Norwich.
